Low fuel may have caused fatal plane crash

By MICHAEL H. BABICZ
Community Editor

Lack of fuel is being focused upon as the possible cause of the fatal airplane crash Aug. 5 near Campbell Airport in Grayslake.

Four persons, three of the same family, were killed in the nighttime crash which occurred when the single engine 1973 Piper Arrow struck high tension power lines just south of the airport while on approach to land.

The 9:45 p.m. crash took the lives of licensed pilots Reid Borgeson, 55, of McHenry, owner of the plane, John Robinson, 56, of Grayslake, along with Robinson's daughter, 27-year-old Pamela Wright, and her husband, 29-year-old Barry Wright, both of Lindenhurst.

The four were returning from an ice cream trip to the Lake Geneva area Lake Lawn Airport in nearby Delevan, Wis., on a clear evening while flying under visual conditions without a filed flight plan.

At the Lake County Coroner's Office inquest Sept. 16, the coroner's jury ruled all four deaths accidental due to an air mishap.

Lake County Coroner Barbara Richardson said the deaths were all caused by multiple injuries "due to blunt force."

In a statement entered into evidence from the National Transportation Safety Board, the left wing fuel tank was separated from the remainder of the aircraft fuselage.

According to the NTSB report, the fuel tank was crushed with a covering of a "soot like substance." The left main tire was found charred underneath the wing.

"There is an indication the plane may have run low on fuel," Richardson said.

The complete findings of the NTSB along with a probable cause are not expected for six to nine months.

Road work progressing

Road improvements to Depot Street scheduled to be finished by October

By MICHAEL H. BABICZ
Community Editor

Improvements to Depot Street in Antioch are progressing.

The work will be done in three stages. Phase I runs from Pickard Street to Main Street (Route 83), including approximately 300 feet on Main Street.

In that area, work is to include removal and replacement of curbs and gutters, some sidewalk repairs, driveway aprons, and storm water catch basins, as required.

A retaining wall is to be added on the north side of Depot Street near Antioch Grade School.

The final improvement of this section is removal and replacement of the asphalt bituminous surface.

Phase II runs from just west of the Wisconsin Central Railroad tracks to the east side of the Anita Avenue intersection. The work is to be the same as that done in the first phase.

John Boldt, Antioch village engineer, explains the Phase III improvements will be the "most visible."

This section runs from Anita Avenue east to Longview Drive. Relocating the road bed at the locations of two right angle turns to make the road "a more streamlined S curve" is planned.

The work in that section will include: earth excavating, ditching, storm sewer construction, driveway replacement, bituminous removal, roadway subgrade preparation, bituminous concrete paving, and gravel shoulders. A sidewalk will be added along the north side of the road in this phase.

The entire project is to receive new pavement markings such as center lines, roadway signs and landscape restoration.

Village engineers estimate the project will be mainly completed by mid to late October. Some final touchup items may need to wait until spring, such as parts of the landscaping work, due to the growing seasons.

A firefighter's dream

New fire station prepares Antioch for millennium

By MICHAEL H. BABICZ
Community Editor

The Antioch Fire Department is preparing to move into the next millennium with expanded service and equipment.

The new $1.5 million east side station to be referred to as Station 2, located on Deep Lake Road just north of Depot Street, is expected to be up and running in time for its Fire Prevention Week public debut.

"The growth on the east side is expected to continue," said Lt. Chris Lienhardt, Fire District 1 public information officer. "They don't have a lot of water out there, so we need something which can carry water and fight the fire at the same time."

The answer is a 2,000 gallon tanker-pumper truck which is at the Main Station but will be moved to Station 2.

A heavy equipment rescue squad complete with hazardous materials (HAZMAT) equipment, along with auto extrication tools and ventilation equipment will also be added.

At this time, that piece of equipment is generally the second to respond to an accident scene with its use being more search and rescue along with ventilation. When at the new station, it would become a first responding unit.

A new ladder truck complete with extrication equipment is expected to be in production by Oct. 1 and delivered by the end of the year. When that truck arrives, it will be at the main station and will become the first responder, especially for auto extrication at scenes west of the railroad tracks.

A brush fire truck will be housed at the new station. An ambulance provided by Antioch Rescue Squad is expected to be stationed in the new facility.

The present Antioch Fire Department roster, which is all volunteer, numbers 55 along with two semi-retired officers including Honorary Chief Todd Maplethorpe and Honorary Assistant Chief John Tegelman.

The new station will be staffed 24 hours per day by three firefighters who will actually live at the facility. In exchange for free rent, the three will be responsible for daily chores and general upkeep of the station, including cleaning and lawn maintenance. In addition, they are required to respond to any calls which come in.

The three will not be paid any extra for living there. "They'll still be paid per call," explained Lienhardt. "Other departments do it and it works out real well because in

No clear timetable on proposed subdivision

By MICHAEL BABICZ
Community Editor

The topic of annexation of a proposed subdivision at Route 59 and Beach Grove Road just outside the village's southern limits is not scheduled to come before the village board in the near future.

Despite rumors circulating the community, the topic has not been scheduled on the village board's agenda. It is expected to come up eventually, but it could be weeks, possibly as late as November, according to village officials.

Residents of the area are upset regarding the proposed development eliminating some of the natural lands, as well as the potential impact of more residents on the schools and roads.

A request by Diamond Development to build 160 homes on an 80 acre parcel was voted down 6-0 by the village zoning board of appeals. The question is expected to come before the village board for reconsideration.

Village officials had originally indicated the matter might come up at the Sept. 20 village board meeting. However, no exact date on when the matter will be voted on has been set.

The man who lived in a home on Drexel Boulevard in Antioch, whose name has not yet been released, talks with Lt. Chris Leinhardt of the Antioch Fire Department after the department extinguished a fire at the house. No one was injured. —Photo by Sandy Bressner

Fire damages home

The Antioch Fire Department responded to a report of a structure fire at 38377 Drexel Blvd. in unincorporated Antioch Township at 12:10 p.m. Sept. 21. The first arriving companies confirmed there was a fire in the house on the east side. The fire was quickly knocked down using the pre-connected lines from the engine. A primary and secondary search of the building for any occupants was conducted with no one found in the building. During the fire, the Lake Villa Fire Department stood by at the Antioch Fire Station.

The unofficial damage estimate is $5,000. Most of the damage was in the kitchen area. There were no injuries.

The fire is under investigation by the Lake County Sheriff's Department.

In to the Antioch Fire Department, other departments assisting with the fire were the Lake Villa and Fox Lake fire departments, the State Fire Marshal and the sheriff's department.

Wrongful death suit filed in crash that killed father of 3

Attorney Patrick A. Salvi of the law firm of Salvi & Schostok P.C., filed a Wrongful Death lawsuit Sept. 16 on behalf of a former Round Lake area resident and father of three who was killed in Newport Township on July 6.

The decedent, John Crisman, 33, of Paddock Lake, Wis., was traveling northbound on Hunt Club Road north of Millburn Road when his 1995 Chevrolet Corsica was struck by a 1993 Pontiac Bonneville driven by Christopher A. Ruggiero, 21, of Antioch.

Ruggiero, who had been fishing at 5 a.m. that morning, admitted to police that he caught himself falling asleep behind the wheel a few miles earlier. Police believe Ruggiero may have fallen asleep again when he crossed over the center line and struck the Crisman's vehicle.

Crisman was unable to avoid the collision and had to be extricated from his vehicle. He later died at Provena St. Therese Medical Center in Waukegan. Ruggiero was treated and released at the scene.

Crisman, a 1984 graduate of Round Lake High School, is survived by his wife and three children.

The complaint filed in the Circuit Court of Lake County names the plaintiff, Vikki Crisman, as Special Administrator of the Estate of John R. Crisman, Jr., deceased, against defendant, Christopher A. Ruggiero.

"This seems to be yet another tragic case of driver negligence," said Salvi.

Self-confidence, big smile keys for Ms. Lindenhurst

Antioch High student meets challenges with style as 1999 queen

By MICHAEL H. BABICZ
Community Editor

Young people are faced with many challenges in today's society. For some, it is difficult to keep up their own self-image. For others, it is viewed as just another challenge to meet square on.

Friends sticking together can often be a very positive thing.

Such is the case for 1999 Miss Lindenhurst Kortney DeLeon.

The 16-year-old Antioch Community High School junior decided to join the pageant because one of her friends, Rachelle Macheski, was doing it and asked if Kortney would join her.

"The interview was less stressful," DeLeon said of her favorite part of the pageant process. "I have no problem talking with adults."

The questions asked during the process mainly dealt with "me," DeLeon explained, noting they focused on her life and different aspects of it.

In contrast, one of the more challenging parts for DeLeon was when she was on stage and a question was pulled out of a basket requiring an impromptu response.

"I didn't know what that question would be and had to think off the stop of my head," DeLeon explained. "My question was, 'when students are told to say no to drugs, what should they say yes to.' I said they should say yes to freedom."

"They should be able to stand up for themselves, make their own choices and not be part of a crowd," DeLeon continued. "They should want to be independent."

Singing and acting are two things DeLeon enjoys doing. DeLeon credits her ACHS choir teacher, Keith Cox, with being "a wonderful mentor."

DeLeon's interest in acting is credited to Steve Keown, a volunteer stage hand who assists in the ACHS productions.

"I've always been a singer," DeLeon said. "I practice and have gradually gotten better."

Being a member of the ACHS cappella and show choirs exemplifies her improvement.

Combining her interest in acting and singing, DeLeon aspires to go to New York City and "be an actress on Broadway."

Getting a degree in musical theater and teaching is DeLeon's fall-back plan "if I don't become famous or perform."

Participating in local stage productions such as PM&L Theatre in Antioch is something DeLeon looks forward to doing, even while completely her high school years. "I'm hoping to try out for some of their parades," DeLeon said. "I've been in a number of high school plays already."

Among the duties and requirements of being Miss Lindenhurst which DeLeon looks forward to are making appearances at business grand openings, being in a lot of parades, especially the Columbus Day parade in downtown Chicago.

"I love the city and being down there is always a lot of fun," DeLeon added.

When not busy with appearances or school, DeLeon enjoys working at Patch 22, a pony farm on Route 41 in Wadsworth, or working at the Waukegan Yacht Club office on a computer and as a collator.

"I like working at the Patch because it's outside and you can work with kids and animals, which is a lot of fun," DeLeon said. "I work with the pony rides for birthday parties and other outings. I help supervise the parties and also the petting farm."

The biggest advice DeLeon wants to pass on to those thinking about entering a pageant is "smile."

"Definitely smile a lot," DeLeon explained. "Don't be afraid of intimidated by interviews with the judges. Be confident of yourself. Don't be ashamed of any aspect of the competition, especially the swimsuit."

"Be confident, stand tall and smile," DeLeon concluded.

DeLeon: 'Be confident, stand tall and smile'

Bahamas Resorts Suffer Little Damage From Floyd

by JIM WARNKEN, President, North Star Travel, Inc.

At the time of this writing (a couple days after Hurricane Floyd blew through the Bahamas) there is little information of the damage done to the more remote of the 700 islands that make up the Bahamas. However, the major resort areas are surprisingly reporting little damage. I will, of course, have to make a trip down there to check it out. Hey, it's my job.

According to the Bahamas Ministry of Tourism, as of 5:00 PM on Thursday September 16, the Nassau/Paradise Island area is reportedly almost back to normal. All banks, Government offices and most businesses are open. Power and phone service has been restored, the airport is open and most roads are clear of fallen trees. Even the kids will be going back to school in a day or so. (Their version of snow days I guess).

Of the resorts for which we have received reports, the following are fully open with no more than "landscaping" damage:

The Atlantis, Ocean Club, Bay View Village, Club Landor, Villas in Paradise, Sunrise Beach Club, Radisson Cable Beach Hotel, Casuarinas, Buena Vista, Holiday Inn Junkanoo Beach, Nassau Harbor Club, Red Carpet Inn and Montagu Beach Inn. The Sheraton Grand is open but did receive some minor cosmetic damage and its sun deck and verandah restaurants are closed. Having been to many islands after a hurricane, I would expect the pools of most of these resorts will be a mess for another week or so.

The resorts reporting some minor damage are as follows:

Sandals Royal Bahamian suffered some minor damage to its roof and dock and will not be accepting guests until after Sept. 23. Their private island is also closed with no reopening date at this time. (As a side note, Sandals offers a Hurricane Guarantee including full refund of airfare). The Nassau Marriott also had some minor roof damage. The pools and tennis courts still have to be cleaned of blown sand.

The Paradise Harbor Club and the British Colonial, while reporting only minor damage, have both chosen to stay closed until early October for "regular maintenance".

As for the flora and fauna of the island, from my experience, I would expect nature will have things back to normal in no more than a month or two.

A note to the Credit Card Man: Stop sending us useless mail

Dear Mr. Head Guru In Charge of Junk Mail, here is an open letter to all you "corner office with a view executives" who constantly stuff our mailbox with those annoying pre-approved credit card applications: stop sending us your unwanted, unopened, unread and unaccepted paper work.

And while you're at it, please tell your cousin, Mr. Call Just As Dinner Is Being Put On The Table Telemarketer, that we don't want any of his business either.

It's bad enough that we receive envelopes addressed to Mr. & Mrs. Pringle, sometimes just Mr. Neal, sometimes just Mrs. Lynn, but occasionally I even receive the unwanted trash addressed to Mr. Lynn. Now I don't claim to be any raving beauty, but I do believe its easy enough to distinguish me from a Mr.—and these people want my business.

Our children, all under the age of 10, receive credit card applications on a regular basis even though it states right in the "Terms & Conditions" that applicants must be of legal age. I don't think 10

JINGLE FROM PRINGLE

Lynn Pringle

qualifies as legal age.

My dad once filled out and returned an application that strictly stated a card would not be issued to anyone over 70 years of age. (I don't know why, they are the ones with all the money) but nonetheless that was one of the stipulations. Several weeks later he received his new credit card in the mail with activation instructions. My father is 78. He never activated the card and the company called him regularly to find out why. He finally told them he died—and they still continued to call! Like the credit card companies aren't making enough money off those folks who have their cards maxed out and pay only the minimum every month, now they have to go and bother dead people.

These companies have all the incentives. There is no annual fee and they offer exceedingly low interest rates, which, when you read the small print, last exactly 2 1/2 days after you activate the card.

They allow you to transfer any other unpaid credit card balances and offer credit card protection in the event you lose your job and can't pay your bill. Of course they fail to mention the $900 late charge they slap on your bill if you are 60 seconds late in paying, or the visit big, hairy-knuckled Vinny will make to your residence if you miss a payment altogether.

They generously furnish a "No postage necessary if mailed in the United States" business reply envelope so you can return your application free of charge—do you think Mr. Credit Card man can spare the lousy 33 cents when they are raking in megabucks with their 37 percent interest rate on unpaid balances? I have found a very satisfying solution to all that wonderful literature that fills our box: After opening all their glitzy envelopes, I place all the contents of that envelope into their postage-paid envelope. I seal the envelope and place it in the mailbox at the end of my driveway for Mr. Postman to pick up and whisk back to sender. See how Mr. Credit Card Man likes getting his post office box filled with unwanted credit card applications. Now if anybody knows the pesky telemarketer's phone number—let me know! And so goes another "Jingle From Pringle".

Readers with information for "Jingle from Pringle" should call Lynn Pringle at 395-6364.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Village should reconsider decision on Scout House

I was extremely saddened and disappointed to recently learn of the dismal fate of the Antioch Scout House. The decision to remove or demolish this structure should be reconsidered by the mayor and village council. The Scout House is indeed a village landmark, no argument to the contrary exists. A place of tradition for educational programs and scouting organizations spanning two generations and serving thousands of people, young and old alike. I, like many before and after me, attended kindergarten and many scout meetings there. I was warmed at the stone fireplace and sometimes roasted marshmallows there. I marched, played games, learned lessons and "camped out" upon the sturdy wood floor. I remember the familiar, secure feeling the building offered. Is Antioch so prepared to blot this place from existence?

Across the U.S., around the globe for that matter, one finds the strongest, most successful communities are those that have preserved their heritage and fostered historic interest for future generations. This concept is not foreign to the Antioch community as evidenced by the accomplishment establishing the old school museum just down the street from the Scout House. Why then, stop there? The Scout House is a unique and important creation that must be held just as dear. After it is gone, mere photographs of a place that once was a local treasure will not serve enough to honor all the wonderful memories it has provided.

I feel there must be many more people wondering why it must be removed or demolished. The truth is, it doesn't have to be. But concerns alone are not enough to save it. Concerns must be changed into voices of protest and actions of preservation. Estimated costs of repair at 50-70,000 dollars, if accurate, are a bargain at twice that amount when compared to the prospect of losing it forever. It is worth saving!

As an educator, I fully realize the importance of a library facility. However, when the consideration in this case is for the expansion of an existing facility versus the demolition of another treasured one, it seems the sacrifice may be too great. I also have fond recollections of using the old Williams house that served as Antioch's library for years. I know I speak for many who wished that structure too could have been preserved and incorporated into a library expansion project, rather than destroyed to make way for the current building. Have all possible options been explored to allow an expanded library and Scout House to coexist? Is Antioch losing sight of the important features that give a village its character?

A few thoughts on what might be done follow. I suggest that the Antioch village leaders adopt an immediate moratorium on the planned action of sale or removal of the Scout House. I urge the historic commission and any and all interested individuals or groups to organize preservation aid for the Scout House. Schedule a community cleanup and repair day for necessary work to be completed. I am confident many volunteers will come forward to donate labor, materials and funds for this worthy cause.

Lastly, when presented with the prospect of the Scout House remaining intact on its original plot, I wager Charles Schroeder, member of the original donating family, will be even happier than he was when he heard of the previous plan of potential destruction.

Grayslake restaurant forced to close due to health violations

Health department revokes food license of Oliver's Grill and Bar

By JOHN ROSZKOWSKI
Regional Editor

A Grayslake restaurant has been forced to close its doors due to repeated health violations, according to a Lake County Health Department official.

The health department sent a hand-delivered letter to Oliver's Grill and Bar, 305 S. Route 83, indicating the establishment's food license had been revoked and it would have to close its doors effective Sept. 20, according to Leslie Piotrowski, public information officer for the county health department.

Piotrowski said the health department had received complaints from customers who had seen cockroaches in the restaurant.

"We've had numerous complaints from people who have seen roaches," she said.

In response to the complaints, the health department sanitarians conducted several inspections at the facility and found there was an "infestation problem."

During the inspection process, she said their sanitarians found flies and cockroaches in the kitchen area of the restaurant. During a visit, inspectors also found two dead mice in traps and mouse droppings on the floor in the kitchen area. Another inspector indicated he had seen a rat in a storage area.

Piotrowski said the restaurant was cited for numerous violations, including leaving foods uncovered, food temperature violations, poor sanitation practices, rodent droppings found in food, cross contamination of food, food stored on the floor, garbage stacked around an outside dumpster and other problems.

Piotrowski said the health department sanitarians have tried to educate the owner on the need to correct the violations, but despite some progress, it's been "an ongoing problem."

"Our objective is to protect the public health. The last thing we want to do is revoke a food license but he (the owner) has a certain responsibility for his operation," said Piotrowski.

She said the restaurant was fined about $1,000 for health violations last year but the fines were eventually negotiated down to $500.

"In this case, it's a situation where the owner has been told numerous times he's been in violation by our sanitarians. It's a very unusual situation (to revoke a license) because in most cases the restaurants comply," she said.

Piotrowski said this is the first eating establishment in Lake County this year that has had its license revoked. There are about 2,500 facilities the health department inspects each year, including restaurants, bars, hospitals and nursing homes.

Randy Miller, the owner of Oliver's Bar and Grill, requested a hearing before the Lake County Board of Health after learning of the health department's interest in revoking the license. The hearing was held last week.

Miller could not be reached for comment about the license revocation—after several attempts—prior to Lakeland Newspaper's press deadline.

The restaurant can apply to have its restaurant reinstated, according to Piotrowski.

However, she said the establishment must first correct all of the violations. She said he also must take an 18-hour service management course in proper food sanitation and preparation practices.

Piotrowski said Miller has the option to appeal the health department's decision in Circuit Court if he chooses to do so.

Bowling them over!

Many great athletes have passed through our area over the years, many of which go somewhat unnoticed.

Here's a chance to acknowledge some of them.

The Lake County Women's Bowling Association will be holding its Hall of Fame Banquet on Sunday, October 3 at Maravella's on Rte. 59, Grand Ave. and Washington Street in Fox Lake.

Cocktails at 5 p.m. will kick off the festivities, followed by dinner at 6 p.m. and award presentations and inductions to follow soon after. The cost is $20 per person. For further information and reservations, call The LCWBA Chairman, Renee Reitmayer at 838-0129 in the evenings or 938-5887 during daytime hours.

There will be a host of honors handed out, beginning with the Meritorious Awards going to Evelyn Jereb (1997-98) and Sandy Kelley (1998-99). Superior Performance Awards will be given to Kimmie Hucker (1997-98) and Betty Servis (1998-99). Bowler of The Year honors will be awarded to Terri Moros and Renee Reitmayer (1997-98) and Norma Sparks (1998-99). Marlene Poulsen (1997-98) and Joan Stein (1998-99) will be awarded as part of the Secretary's Honor Roll, while Stars of Tomorrow acknowledgements will go to Robbie Spigner for 1997-98 and Michalina Ostrander, Brandi Bobrick, Jason Graham, and Bill Anderson for 1998-99.

Furthermore, because of their honors, The Lake County Women's Bowling Association will induct Jereb, of Round Lake, Kelley, of Antioch, and Hucker and Servis, both of Lake Villa, into the LCWBA Hall of Fame.

Hucker and Julie Saxer will also receive awards for bowling a 300 game this past season.

And speaking of awards, kudos to Warren Township High School's Dave Mohapp.

Mohapp, in his third year as head football coach, was recently named to the Northwest Herald's All-Century Team. The Woodstock High graduate rushed for 3,298 yards and scored 32 touchdowns by the time he graduated in 1977. Mohapp went on to be an All-Big Ten running back for the Wisconsin Badgers.

Niles runs wild as Sequoits win thriller

By JOHN PHELPS
Sports Editor

Having the good hands was definitely the story last Friday as the Sequoit varsity football team won its third game in a row, escaping with a thrilling 27-20 victory over NSC rival Zion-Benton.

With the win, Antioch improved to 3-1 overall and all of a sudden finds itself tied with Stevenson atop the North Suburban Conference.

Senior running back Adam Niles was the main workhorse, rumbling for 190 yards on 32 carries and scoring all four Antioch touchdowns.

"Tonight was the exact opposite of last week—we used the pass to set up the run," said Niles. "The offensive line opened huge holes for me tonight, holes you could have driven a truck through."

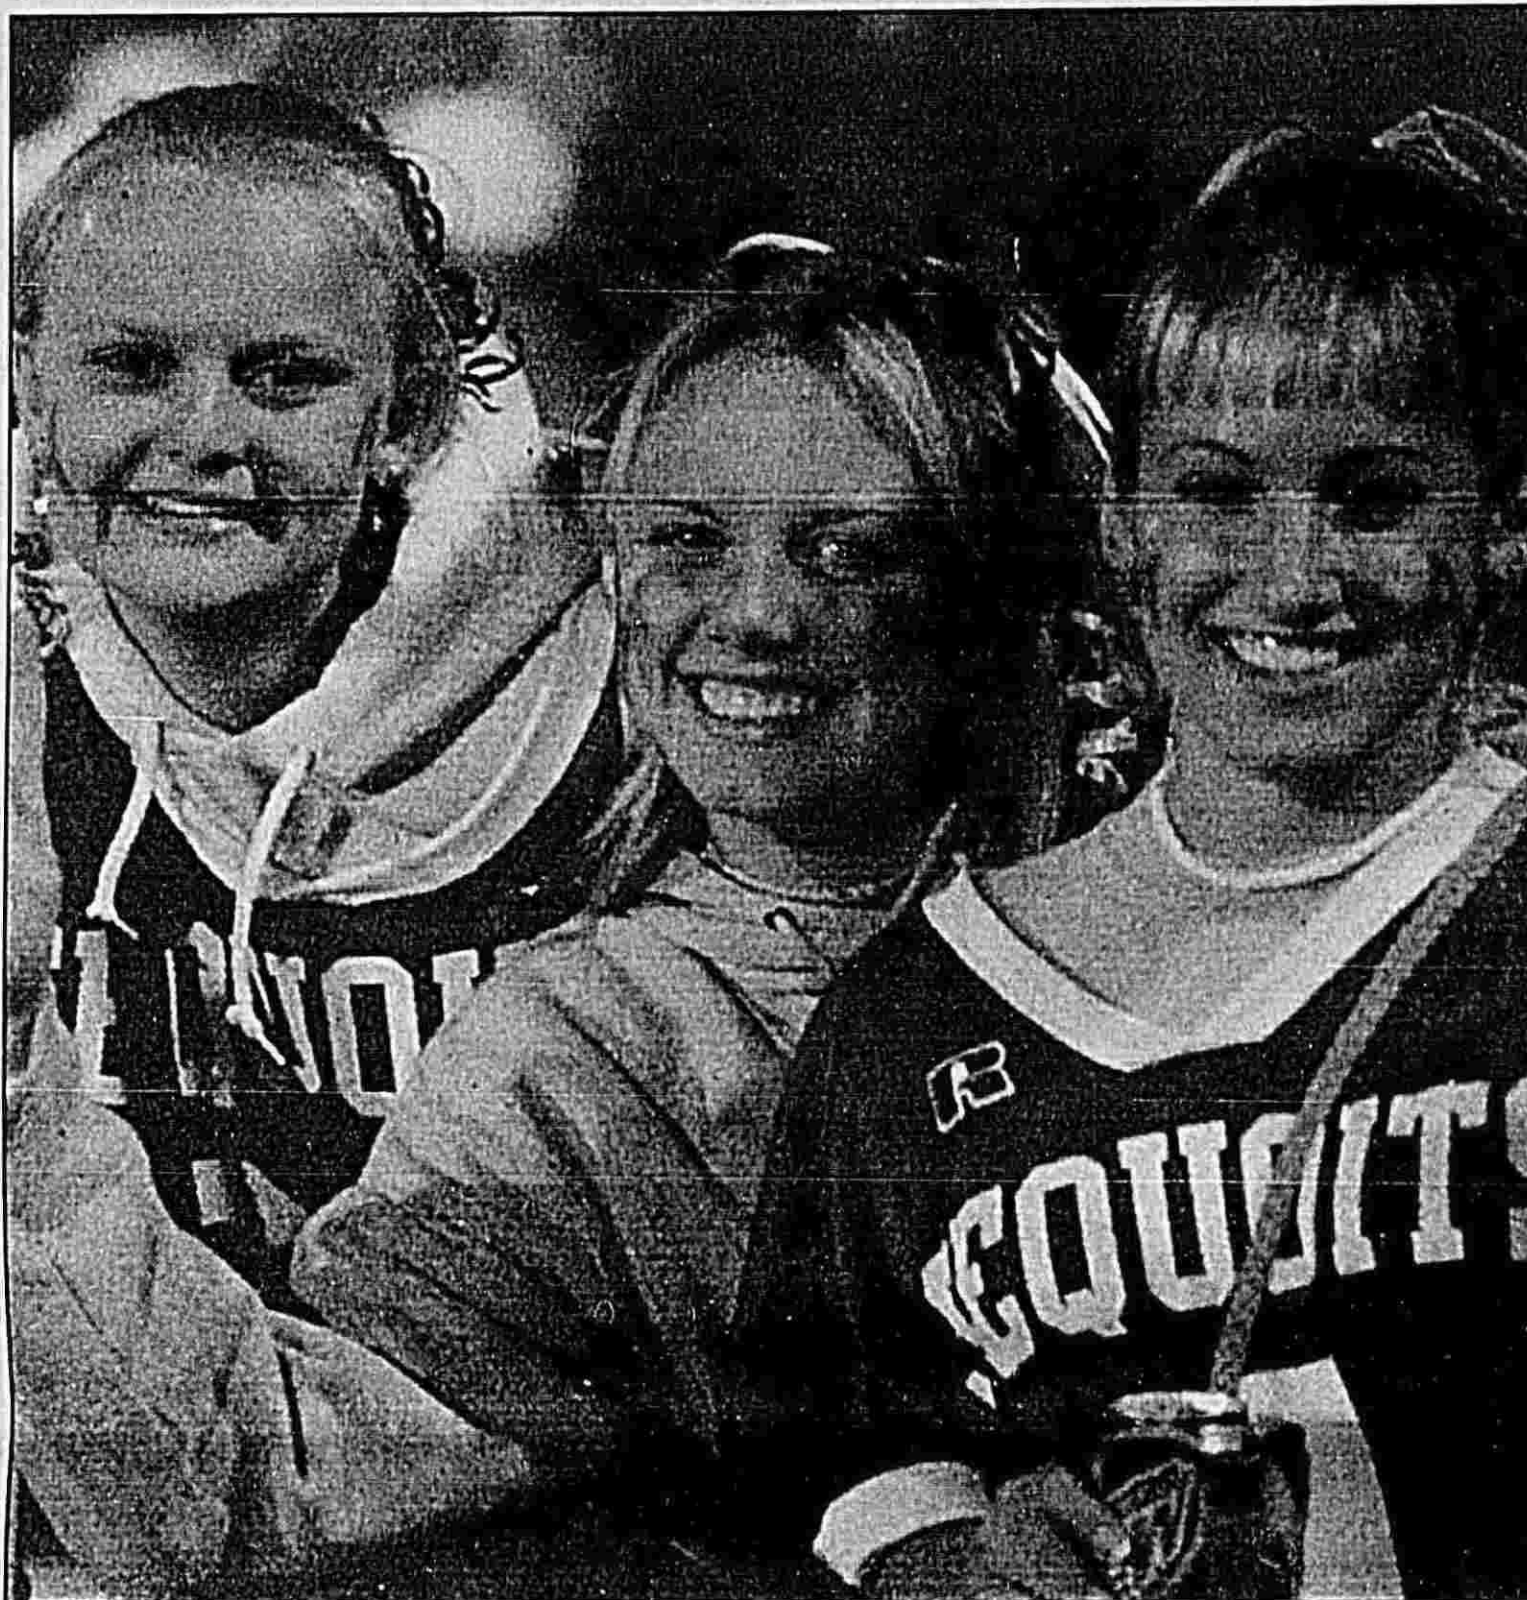

But it was perhaps the hands of running back Mark Purnell that made the difference. With the game tied at 20-20 and 11 minutes remaining, Antioch had a fourth-and-one at its own 19-yard line. Set up for a punt, the snap was mishandled and wound up in the hands of Purnell, who raced for four yards and a Sequoit first down.

"We work on plays like that in practice," said head coach Del Pechauer. "I honestly think Mark panicked when he got the ball. But hey, he saw some open grass and wanted to make something happen and did."

From there, ACHS marched the rest of the 91 yards, a drive taking 12 plays and culminating with a Niles 3-yard run. Zion looked to answer after the ensuing kickoff, but the drive stalled at the Antioch 35-yard line when a pass on fourth-and-19 sailed incomplete.

Offensively, Eric White caught five passes for 54 yards and Keli Owens hauled in two catches for 38 yards. Purnell also gained 14 yards on three carries.

Senior quarterback Don Lackey was quiet, completing 8-of-13 passes for 94 yards. But then again, when the rushing game is in high gear, having an arm such as Lackey's is icing on the cake.

es for 94 yards. But then again, when the rushing game is in high gear, having an arm such as Lackey's is icing on the cake.

The Sequoits end a four-game road-trip when they travel to tangle with Libertyville Saturday at 1 p.m.

Libertyville stands at 3-1 overall, 1-1 in the NSC suffering its first loss last week, a 44-7 defeat at the hands of Warren.

Sequoit netters move to 5-2

By JOHN PHELPS
Sports Editor

"Positive" might be the buzz word here according to Sequoit varsity head coach Bryan Plinske.

"The girls had a positive attitude going into the match, there was a number of positive things happening on the court, and Antioch had a positive outcome to the match," said Plinske.

The match Plinske is referring to is the 4-1 victory over NSC foe Zion-Benton last week.

No. 1 singles player Mandy Hughes cruised to a 6-2, 6-0 victory while no. 2 player Silvia Skripkauskaitė prevailed 6-1, 6-4.

"Our singles players focused in and got the job done," noted Plinske. "They played with confidence that allowed them to move their opponents around."

Turning to doubles, the no. 1 tandem of Jenny Rogers and Kristen Jensen coasted to a 6-0, 6-0 victory. At the no. 2 position, Heather Zeman and Mary O'Neil also had little trouble in recording a 6-0, 6-2 victory.

The no. 3 duo of Leak Tobias and Adrienne Beard played well but came up a little short.

"Overall, our doubles teams have been attacking the net and being more aggressive," noted Plinske. "They've been finding their opponents weaknesses and hitting the ball right at them to keep them off balance."

Last Thursday, Antioch suffered a heart-breaking 3-2 loss to Libertyville. The lone singles winner was Skripkauskaitė at the no. 2 position, while the no. 1 doubles team of Rogers and Jensen also posted a victory.

"We were in the match until the very last point," said Plinske. "The girls showed a lot of heart. Plus, this was the best finish we've had against Libertyville in recent history, which is always encouraging. They're a good team."

Finally, the Sequoits played well Monday but came up short against Woodlands Academy, 3-2.

"Our singles players played great," said Plinske. "The doubles teams played with a lot of heart—all three matches went three sets. But we just came up a little short."

Singles winners Monday included Mandy Hughes at no. 1 and Silvia Skripkauskaitė at the Andrew Kinney fired a school-record 35 for nine holes at Spring Valley Tuesday as Antioch downed Warren 152-165. Tom Davis backed him with a 38, followed by Shaun Schuler (39) and John Logan (40).

Last Thursday, Davis carded a 37 and Logan, Kinney, and Christian Litke each had 38s but Lake Forest edged Antioch 147-151.

"We're giving them fits," said head coach Jeff Moxley. "Hats off to them for coming to our turf and beating us. It was a great match. We have another shot at them this weekend in the Lake Forest Invitational at Lake Bluff."

Finally, last Tuesday, the Sequoits cruised past Mundelein 149-167. It was a school-record score for nine holes. Logan was the medalist with a 36, followed by Kinney and Nate Zeller with 37 and Litke at 39.

"The kids are really pressing," added Moxley. "This is the time to start peaking."

Antioch is now 10-1 overall in dual meets, 5-1 in the North Suburban.

Mitsubishi motors introduces updated 2000 Montero Sport

Mid-size sport utility vehicle offers aggressive styling, convenient features, even smoother ride

Significantly updated and restyled with interior and exterior revisions by the California-based Mitsubishi Motors R&D of America, Inc. (MRDA) design studio, the 2000 Mitsubishi Montero Sport also features several technical improvements, including a new 3-link rear coil spring suspension.

"Montero Sports" styling and interior updates were developed to specifically reflect the tastes of American car buyers," said Pierre Gagnon, executive vice president and chief operating officer for Mitsubishi Motor Sales of America, Inc. (MMSA). "The result is a very stylish sport utility vehicle that offers a combination of excitement, practicality and a user-friendly interior."

With thoughtfully designed features inside and out, the updated Montero Sport boasts a distinctive style and new refinements that allow it to stand apart in the heavily populated sport utility market. The 2000 Montero Sport was available at Mitsubishi Motors' dealerships starting in early summer. Rugged Exterior Design

A lean, muscular look has always been Montero Sport's trademark. That tradition continues for 2000 with an aggressive front and rear exterior restyling. From a new grille, front bumper, fog lights and bodyside moldings to revised taillamps and rear garnish, Montero Sport displays even more rugged style.

Refined Interior

Whether you're going cross-country or simply across town, Montero Sports cabin has been updated to offer a high level of comfort while providing convenient new features, such as a third auxiliary 12-volt power outlet. The vehicle's two front cupholders are now located in the new center console, which also boasts ample storage space for items commonly used by today's busy consumers.

Other new elements of the Montero Sport's spacious cabin include a two-tone instrument panel scheme, new fabrics and orthopedically improved front seats, with the driver's side now offering adjustable back support.

Lake County businessmen expanding on success with film production company

News Editor

Far from the pressure-cooker world of Hollywood, Lake County businessman Nick Celozzi and his partners are quietly creating a movie empire with their own production company.

Brothers Nick and Joe Celozzi have teamed with Libertyville resident Frank Esposito to form Celozzi Films, and though the company is only one year old, the venture has already achieved some heady milestones.

Celozzi Films has cut a deal with Los Angeles-based Allied Films to market and distribute the three films a year the partners plan to produce.

The Celozzi brothers are members of the Celozzi automobile family, a household name in the Chicago-area car business for decades. In addition to a healthy acting career, Nick Celozzi is the accounting manager for Celozzi Ford—one of two dealerships the family operates in Waukegan, the other is Celozzi Chrysler/Plymouth.

Nick Celozzi is producer/director for Celozzi Films, while brother Joe acts as executive producer with the primary job of finding investors to provide the money to make the films.

Partner Frank Esposito is also an executive producer. His brother, Joe used to serve at Elvis Presley's right-hand man and was involved in all of the King's movies. It was Joe who discovered Elvis dead in his Graceland bathroom.

The making of movies—even those that are relatively inexpensive at $1.8 to $2 million to produce—is a challenge that keeps the partners on the cutting edge.

"This business doesn't allow for any mistakes. It's unforgiving, if you don't make money, someone else will. It's your baby," Nick Celozzi said.

Though the three work together in the venture, it is Nick who is out front. His experience as an actor and director gives him the confidence to produce his own films.

At the age of 30, Nick Celozzi has produced 12 films, a very uncommon achievement in an industry that is as much about who you know as about what you know. Nick was fortunate to have been "discovered" by Robert Conrad, who saw him perform in a Chicago play and had him travel to Hollywood to help promote Celozzi's acting career.

The path to screens both large and small has been an interesting one for Celozzi. His parents—Nick Sr. and mother Carol—originally wanted him to attend Notre Dame and become an attorney.

Nicky, as he is known, convinced his parents that Marquette University would be a better choice.

The Milwaukee university has a respected law school, but also has a superior fine arts program.

"I originally had to sneak around to be involved in acting until I could prove myself. My mother still says I'd be a great attorney, but now recognizes my skill as a producer," Nick Celozzi said.

Celozzi is the youngest of four Celozzi siblings, including brothers Joe and Chris, and sister RoseAnn.

After performing in about seven theatrical productions at Marquette, Celozzi was performing in Chicago when Conrad became impressed and decided to help him further his career.

Celozzi's first speaking role in a film came in the 1970s movie, "My Bodyguard." That was followed by a part in "Risky Business" and more than 13 additional films after that. He has also performed in two plays in Los Angeles, made appearances in eight television series, including "Days of Our Lives," "Magnum, P.I.," "Hunter," "The 'A' Team," and "Walker, Texas Ranger."

In fact, Celozzi's latest appearance in "Walker" is due to air in October.

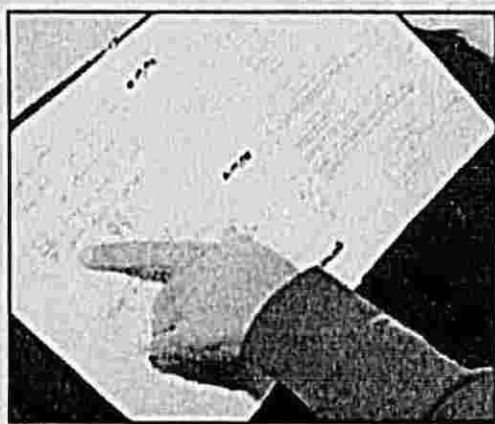

Working with Chuck Norris, the producer, director and star of the series was very enjoyable for Celozzi. "It was a great experience working with Norris. They were all very nice, hard working with great attitudes," he said.

Performing in "Walker" gave Celozzi an opportunity to showcase his martial arts skills. He has held a black belt in karate for 13 years. In fact, the fighting scenes are real—no stunt men.

As for Celozzi Films, the partners want to keep it based in Chicago. This is especially important for Nick, because it takes him out of the "Hollywood fantasy life and grounds me to reality," he said. Spending time with a very supportive family is also a benefit, according to Celozzi.

It takes about a year for one of the films to be completed and released. Celozzi Films has developed a strategy of using the best and most appropriate talent available. That means talent that a film's budget can support.

Nick Celozzi said that, at times, this has meant using actors who may be in the process of recycling their careers or reinventing themselves. Using such talent affords the company an opportunity to have a recognizable name as the star, without breaking the bank.

Nick Celozzi looks over his director's notes for an upcoming film he is working on with his production company, Celozzi Films.—Photo by Sandy Bréssner

In the past, Celozzi has hired Farah Fawcett and other performers who have wanted to change their image a bit.

The latest Celozzi production, tentatively titled "On The Wire" stars Sean Young and is due to be completed in late October. It will be test-marketed in Chicago in January.

Thus far, the risks haven't bothered the partners.

"Producing movies is a very risky business. You have to own the title in order to make money. You also have to have the right timing and be very confident," Nick Celozzi said.

Some may have a hard time writing a check to make a movie being produced and directed by a 30-year-old film mogul—even one who has been as successful as Nick Celozzi. However, his partners have the ultimate confidence in Nicky.

"It's so risky, (producing a movie) we wouldn't take investor's money if we didn't feel confident," Joe Celozzi said.

The older we get, the louder we squeak

My son phoned home from college last night—collect—as he does most weeks, and during our conversation, I related a story to him about the problems we had encountered with a recent furniture purchase.

To make a long story short, we ordered the furniture at the beginning of August, and it was due to arrive by Sept. 3. By Sept. 2, our living room and dinette areas were empty, as we eagerly awaited the delivery. Unfortunately, it did not arrive until September 15, and on that morning they called to tell me it was coming—but without a kitchen table, which was damaged. Not only that, but the table would have to be re-ordered, and was not due to arrive until Nov. 21.

Needless to say, I was not a happy customer. In fact, as the second person I reached on the phone informed me, the first person had written in my file "customer not happy." At least they got that part right.

Anyway, I proudly related to my son how, after several phone calls and complaints, I finally got them to agree to deliver the damaged table, so at least we'd have something to eat on until the new table arrived. However, I could tell by my son's voice that he was not impressed. He sounded...embarrassed.

Ah, youth. I remember it...what was I saying?

Oh, yes. Anyway, I must admit that I once felt the same way as my son. As a young adult, I was definitely a consumer amateur. I was easy. A pushover. (NOTE—we are talking about my consumer abilities, not my youthful dating habits.)

Back then, if I went to a restaurant and ordered a steak cooked "medium" and it arrived dripping enough blood to make a donation, I did what most amateur consumers do. I either made an attempt to eat it or I said to my husband, "How's your dinner? Mind if I try a bite? Mmmmm... Mind if I have another bite?"

LIFE'S A BEAR

Maybe it was just because I was always told to eat my dinner whether I liked it or not (meaning that on meatloaf or stuffed pepper night, I was a particular favorite of our family dog). But more likely, the fear of confrontation or making a scene simply outweighed the fear of wasting my money. Not to mention that it hadn't been that long since I graduated from childhood, where one does not worry about wasting money, since it belongs to your parents who, as we all know, grow the stuff on trees.

However, most of us eventually rack up enough bad experiences in the game of consuming that we reach a point where we stand up and say, "I'm broke as hell, and I just can't afford to be ripped off anymore!" That's certainly true for me. However, I was also lucky enough to have the opportunity to learn from a wonderful role model for the past dozen years.

With any activity, if you're going to learn, you might as well learn from the best. And when it comes to going for the consumer gold, no one does it better than my mother-in-law, "Corky."

Like my former NBA hero, Michael Jordan of the Chicago Bulls, Corky (of the "Lake Villa Consumers") is at the top of her game.

Just as Michael's dazzling smile and celebrity status could lull his opponents into complacency, so can Corky's appearance fool HER opponents.

A gray-haired senior citizen the size of a Muppet, she seems harmless enough to the average store employee. But like Michael, she plays to win. And like Michael, her secret weapon is her tongue.

Of course, she uses her tongue a little differently, in one of two distinct styles depending on her opponent:

1. The Whip Method. Rather than sticking out her tongue at stubborn or rude salespeople, she uses it to whip them with words. After a loud tongue-lashing from Corky, they are only too eager to make sure she leaves the store satisfied. The sooner the better.

2. The Never-ending Story Method. Some retailers are crafty, playing the "Gee, I'm your friend and I wish I could help you but my hands are tied" game. However, Corky has perfected her defense for that strategy. She simply launches into "The Never-ending Story," a detailed history of the world according to Corky, which begins with "I grew up during the depression" and continues nonstop until the retailer opens the cash drawer for her, shortly before falling asleep. Which is why I always chuckle when I hear those stories in the news and on television about scam artists who prey on so-called helpless senior citizens, taking their money and giving them little in return.

Obviously, they have never met my mother-in-law.

And hopefully, they do not have my son's phone number.

Questions or comments for humorist Donna Abear can be sent to P.O. Box 391, Antioch, IL 60002.

HOROSCOPE

Aries — March 21/April 20

You have a decision to make early in the week, Aries. Look at all of the pros and cons before deciding. Also, consider how your choice will affect everyone involved. This is too important to think only about yourself. A close friend stops talking to you. While it will be difficult, make him or her tell you what's wrong.

Taurus — April 21/May 21

Try not to get upset when a business situation doesn't end up the way that you want it to. If you stay calm, you'll realize that things will work out better for you this way. A good friend offers you romantic advice. Listen to what he or she has to say, because it will help you.

Gemini — May 22/June 21

A family event turns into a family argument. Even though everyone is asking for your opinion, don't get involved. Your loved ones need to clear this up on their own. An acquaintance asks you out on a date. Say yes, because it's sure to be an interesting evening.

Cancer — June 22/July 22

Keep your feelings about the friend of a friend to yourself. If you speak your mind, people will say that you're just jealous — and that will infuriate you. Instead, try to get to know this person better. It will be worth the effort.

Aquarius plays an important role in your love life late in the week.

Leo — July 23/August 23

This is your week to let loose, Leo. You don't have a lot of obligations, and no one is asking you for anything. Enjoy it, and have a little fun. You meet an interesting person during the weekend. Get to know him or her better, because this could be the one. Libra plays a key role.

Virgo — Aug 24/Sept 22

Loved ones are depending on you to get an important family matter taken care of. While you don't really want to do it, you have to. Don't put it off any longer. It will be easier to accomplish than you think. A close friend invites you out for a night on the town at the end of the week. Enjoy yourself, because it's sure to be fun.

Libra — Sept 23/Oct 23

Don't cry over spilled milk, Libra. You make a mistake at the beginning of the week. Learn from it, and move on. Don't beat yourself up about it. It's not worth it. A loved one needs your help late in the week. Do what you can for him or her. Your efforts will be appreciated.

Scorpio — Oct 24/Nov 22

While you're not one to show your emotions, Scorpio, tell that special someone how you really feel about him or her. It will make your relationship much stronger. A business associate needs your assistance with a personal problem. While you want to help, don't. You'll just be getting yourself into a sticky situation.

Sagittarius — Nov 23/Dec 21

Be careful of what you say when meeting with an influential person this week, Sagittarius. You don't want to stick your foot in your mouth. Just stay relaxed, and you'll do fine. A loved one asks for your opinion about the person whom he or she has been seeing. Be honest when answering.

Capricorn — Dec 22/Jan 20

An interesting stranger sweeps you off of your feet early in the week, Capricorn. While you like this person, don't get serious until you find out more about him or her. There is something that he or she isn't telling you. Find out what it is. Leo plays an important role on Monday.

Aquarius — Jan 21/Feb 18

Don't overanalyze an offer of help from a business associate. He or she just wants to get to know you better. There's no ulterior motive. Take him or her up on the offer; it will be worth your time and effort. A loved one turns to you for help with a personal problem. Do what you can.

Pisces — Feb 19/March 20

You have a very busy workweek ahead of you, Pisces. Don't get distracted by those around you. Focus on the tasks at hand, and work diligently. That's the only way to make any progress. The higher-ups will be impressed with your efforts.

First-ever bulb sale at Chicago Botanic Garden

Alliums, crocuses, tulips and other exceptional bulbs will be featured at the first annual Bulb Bazaar from Sept. 24-26 at the Chicago Botanic Garden. Sponsored by the Woman's Board of the Chicago Horticultural Society, the sale offers 240 varieties of bulbs that have been carefully researched and selected for superior blooms in the spring, summer and fall.

The sale is open to the public from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on September 25 and 10 to 3 p.m. on September 26. A special members-only preview sale will be held September 24 from 3-7 p.m. and on September 25, from 8-10 a.m.

The Bulb Bazaar features 60 varieties of tulips, 85 daffodil selections, nearly 20 types of Allium, and other specialty bulbs such as trout lilies, autumn crocuses and snowdrops in a variety of colors and bloom times. In addition to bulbs, fine garden tools, bulb boosters and books on bulbs will be offered during the sale.

Woman's Board members and Bulb Bazaar co-chairs Melissa Shennan and Victoria Verity traveled to the Netherlands in April to research and select the highest quality, premium bulbs to be sold at the first annual sale. In addition to some old favorites, Shennan and Verity carefully chose unusual selections such as the 'Black Beauty' tulip, a rich black flower with outstanding sheen and color, and Muscari latifolium, a giant grape hyacinth that sports dark-blue violet on the bottom and soft blue near the top of the flower.

The Bazaar will also feature a variety of bulbs that are 'wildlife-resistant.' Chicago Botanic Garden horticulturists recommend varieties such as Allium, Chinodoxa, Galanthus, Muscari and Narcissus which have proven distasteful to deer and other garden pests.

While quality bulbs are available throughout the sale, selections may be best during the special members-only hours on September 24, from 3-7 p.m. and on September 25, from 8-10 a.m. Memberships may be purchased at the Bulb Bazaar's entrance on the day of the sale.

For more information on the Bulb Bazaar, contact the Chicago Botanic Garden at 835-5440, 1000 Lake Cook Road, Glencoe, or visit their website at: www.chicago-botanic.org.

DANCE

Open Ballroom Dancing

Richard Burnett continues leading Open Dances at Gorton Community Center, 400 East Illinois Rd., Lake Forest, one Friday night each month. The next dances are set for Oct. 8, Nov. 12 and Dec. 3, from 8-11:30 p.m. The cost is $10 per person (payable at the door), and a half-hour lesson introduces each class.

The dances are designed to accommodate not only couples, but the many singles in the area—of all ages. The music has been selected to please the most advanced dancers, and encourages beginners to improve their skills, and take part in the fun of ballroom dancing. Dancers will enjoy the music of the London Pops Orchestra, Nat King Cole, and the tropical Sounds Orchestra. All types of music and dances are featured: Quickstep, Fox Trot, Viennese Waltz, Rumba, Tango, Cha Cha, Samba and Swing.

For further information, or to receive a program brochure, contact or stop by the Gorton office at 234-6060 between 9 a.m. and 4:30 p.m., weekdays.

MUSIC

Adler presents... 'The Mirandas'

On Saturday, September 25 at 8 p.m., the David Adler Cultural Center will present an evening of traditional and popular music of South America by The Mirandas.

Founded by concert flutist Julie Koidin, The Mirandas share an intensive and broad background in Latin music. Brazilian music is their specialty with an emphasis on "choro", or "chorinho" (Brazilian jazz from Rio de Janeiro and Sao Paulo); forro (from Northeast Brazil) basso novos and sambas. The Mirandas have been featured on WFMT's "Live at Studio One", performed at the benefit for the Chicago Symphony Orchestra, and at the Old Town School of Folk Music.

For more information call the David Adler Cultural Center at 1700 N. Milwaukee Ave. in Libertyville. Tickets are $10, $8 for seniors, half price for children, and may be purchased by phone, at the Center in advance, or at the door. Seating is limited.

Free Artists Talk at arts center

Jan Serr will present a free Artists Talk on Sunday, September 26, from 2-3 p.m. at the Anderson Arts Center located 121-66th Street, Kenosha, WI. The talk will be presented in conjunction with Serr's exhibition of new major oil paintings, ink drawings and monotypes which will be on display in the Main and East Galleries at the Anderson Arts Center September 19 - October 24. All the work is based on a recent continuing series Serr has been working on for the past couple of years, involving a small stream near the artists studio.

"What I am doing is at once very realistic and at the same time every abstract," said Serr. "I am interested in the multiple layers of what we see and what we feel. Why do we find nature at once so very calming and restful and reassuring while at the same time... very threatening and dangerous and uncontrollable. There is life, beautiful and abundant in the stream, and there is also death, fallen leaves, rotting fish and the disturbing fleeting flow of time."

Earlier this year from this series was exhibited in a one-person show at the Perimeter Gallery in Chicago, Illinois. Concurrent with the show of landscapes at the Anderson Arts Center Serr is exhibiting figurative paintings at the Grace Chosy Gallery in Madison, Wisconsin.

Serr's work is in several museum collections including the Milwaukee Art Museum then Haggerty Museum of Art (Marquette University), Rockford Art Museum, then Art Gallery of Ontario, Canada Council and others. Her work is in many private and corporate collections, including Reader's Digest, Aetna Insurance, Ray-O-Vac Corporation, Mary Kay Cosmetics and others.

For more information about the Artists Talk and /or the Jan Serr exhibit, telephone the Anderson Arts Center at 1-414-653-0481.

Home Show offers advice from the queen of home improvement

JoAnne Liebler has dazzled homeowners for years with her helpful and humorous, how-to-home improvement advice. Now, Liebler, known as "Jo Jo" to her fans, will be appearing at The Old House New House Home Show, Oct. 1-3, at the Pheasant Run Mega Center and Ballroom in St. Charles to entertain and enlighten audiences with her expertise. Adult admission is only $6; seniors (62 and over) and children (under 18) are admitted free.

JoAnne Liebler first appeared as Dean Johnson's upbeat co-host of the hands on, PBS series entitled Hometime. She now appears on HGTV's Room for Change and TLC's (The Learning Channel's) Home Savvy sharing her crafty ingenuity with viewers. With years of experience under her proverbial tool belt, Liebler is full of practical suggestions and useful tips for those tackling projects around the house.

Jo Jo's dedication and exuberance is obvious. "The best thing about my job is that it's like going to college—for free. I am constantly learning about new techniques and materials. The more I can learn, the more I can pass on to viewers which is very rewarding."

JoAnne Liebler appears at the Old House New House Show on Oct. 2-3. Call Kennedy Productions at 630-515-1160 for presentation times. Show hours are Friday 2-9 p.m., Saturday 10 a.m.-7 p.m. and Sunday 10 a.m.-5 p.m. The Old House New House Show features 200 experts specializing in remodeling, building, landscaping, kitchen and bath design, tools and gadgets, floors, doors and more.

'For Love of the Game' not a homerun

Ah... baseball. The perfect American pastime. Add Kevin Costner and you have the perfect movie about the beloved sport, right?

Not in this case. Costner plays the role of Billy Chapel, a pitcher whose ailing arm is bringing him closer and closer to retirement, curve ball after curve ball.

His on-and-off girlfriend of five years, Jane Aubrey (Kelly Preston), through teary eyes, has just informed him that she is leaving for London to accept an editing position. Chapel has just been informed that his team, of which he has been a member since the age of 18, has just been sold.

Chapel is left to contemplate the future. Will he fight to remain a part of the Detroit Tigers, be traded to another team, or be forced into re-

movie review

irement at the age of 40?

The movie is set during Chapel's potential farewell performance as the team's aging but able star pitcher, playing against the New York Yankees and the cruel crowds in the stadium. As he "shuts off the mechanism" to ignore the noise, Chapel begins to reflect on his life, including his relationship with Aubrey.

Their relationship is rocky, to say the least. It is very obvious at some points that love is not the most important thing in Chapel's life. His is a life of baseball, a love that began at a very young age. Even after a career-threatening injury, it wasn't Aubrey who Chapel cried out for. His first thought was of his trainer. Chapel is, at times, a jerk, leading Aubrey to believe that he doesn't need her. The only thing he needs is baseball.

Chapel, who could possibly be pitching the best game of his life, uses the time on the "loneliest spot in the world" to reflect on what went wrong with Aubrey, trying to decide if he had indeed sacrificed the love-of-a-lifetime "for love of the game."

Still, it is never the romance between Chapel and Aubrey that runs the show. The thrill of a baseball game is what ultimately holds this movie together. Watching this movie is like watching your favorite baseball team battle it out on the big screen. Director Sam Raimi does a great job at capturing the excitement and emotion of America's favorite pastime.

Costner, who hit a grand slam with Field of Dreams, never quite makes it home in For Love of the Game, although he does come close.

Kevin Costner (right) stars in "For Love of the Game." He turns in a decent performance, though the film overall suffers from something of an identity crisis.

Even with flops like Waterworld, Costner can make an audience love any movie he is in. Preston does well as Aubrey, riding the emotional roller coaster with Chapel with tears and torment.

John C. Reilly is great as catcher Gus Sinski, and Jena Malone is terrific as the troubled teen-age daughter (Heather) of Aubrey.

If this movie had not been based around the fizzling romance of Chapel and Aubrey, and had solely been focused on Chapel's love of baseball, this would have been a great movie. For what it's worth, the only time I felt like shedding a tear was when Chapel became emotional about his love for baseball, not his love for Aubrey.

I give this movie two and a half popcorn boxes.

Tom Chapin at the Woodstock Opera House

1999 FALL BRIDAL GUIDE

September 24, 1999

Lakeland Newspapers / B7

Affordable fashion options abound for the contemporary wedding

With a record number of weddings forecast as we approach the year 2000, much attention is focused on the cost of "tying the knot." Research indicates that in many cases the bride and groom are footing the bill and they are savvy consumers when it comes to seeking value for their dollar.

Good news awaits the contemporary bride-to-be as she shops for the perfect gown. There is a multitude of styles available, even for those with a budget under $1000. "Many brides are under the impression that the only affordable options are found at discount warehouses and sample sales," says Cindi Freeburn, director of design and advertising for Alfred Angelo, a world leader in the marketing of bridal apparel. "Nothing could be further from the truth. Bridal salons who work with manufacturers such as Alfred Angelo are poised to offer brides hundreds of styles ranging from $250-$800." In addition, most of these shops special order the gown for the bride, so she is getting a brand new garment, ordered to meet her measurement specifications. When determining "value," a bride should be considering not only the cost of the gown, but the need for service and alterations as well.

Fashion is not taking a back seat to price, however. Freeburn indicates that Alfred Angelo alone has over 100 bridal designs from which to choose in the $250-$800 price range. "Silhouettes range from simple, elegant and tailored to elaborate, embellished ballgowns," she states. "While satin remains the most popular fabric, we have beautiful gowns in tulle, chiffon, crepe and even silk shantung within these price points." The diversity of the contemporary collections means that even on a budget, every bride can find a beautiful gown that compliments her figure.

Another important factor in the pursuit of the affordable gown, is availability in a wide range of sizes. According to Freeburn, Alfred Angelo has established a reputation for meeting the needs of the Plus Size bride. "We offer over 24 styles in sizes 16W-28W at any given time." Once again, the fashion options are many, ranging from slim silhouettes, to A-lines, to full-skirted traditional styles. "The one common denominator is that a regular bra may be worn for the bride's comfort," comments Freeburn. "We work with plus size women when developing our Women's Collection and they are very candid about what they think is flattering and comfortable."

Service is a key element when thoughts turn to outfitting the bridal party. Brides and their attendants should look for gowns from a manufacturer who offers a full range of sizes and colors and for a retailer who has expertise in measuring and alterations. The challenges of having a half-dozen women of various shapes and sizes look well in one particular style are numerous. According to Freeburn, Alfred Angelo, one of only a handful of firms which market both bridal and bridesmaid gowns, offers all of their bridesmaid styles in both large sizes and in extra-length.

All of this service need not be cost prohibitive, however. There are many beautiful options for bridesmaids in the $150-$200 range. At Alfred Angelo, bridesmaid prices begin at $125 and most are under $200. For those seeking the "finishing" touch to the bare styles so prevalent among today's wedding fashions, many companies offer affordable coordinating gloves.

The best burgers, hot dogs and the smoothest and most delicious ice cream around. Coming—your favorite breakfast.

Maple Street for your favorite food

If it's a savory burger with all the fixin's, or a spicy hot dog with all the trimmin's you crave, head for the Maple Street Corner Restaurant and Ice Cream, located at 639 N. Midlothian in Mundelein, where owner Keith Kottke and his friendly staff serve the best burgers and dogs in town.

Top them off with a fresh fruit smoothie, a sundae, shake or malt made with our extra creamy vanilla or chocolate ice cream. Maybe a frozen custard cone or a dish of lite frozen yogurt is more your style.

For those of you who prefer a special treat that's on the cutting edge of delicious, try a Razzle offered in several yummy flavors, like cookie dough or peanut butter cup.

Starting on Oct. 1, Maple Street will be serving the most important meal of the day—breakfast. Fragrant crisp cinnamon rolls or freshly baked muffins, tops with a cup or two of our freshly ground Ronnoco coffee will be a good early morning choice.

Maybe you prefer a heartier breakfast, like our breakfast burritos or the egg, cheese and ham biscuit, and you can't beat a crunchy toasted bagel smothered in rich cream cheese.

The decor is casual, the food is special, the prices reasonable. Maple Street is open seven days a week, from 10:30 a.m. to 9 p.m. Call (847) 839-9360 for more information.

How to turn your house into a home: 7 keys to great decorating

Whether purchasing a new home or just freshening up an existing one, most homeowners need the answer to the age old question of: "Where do I begin? What can I do to turn this house into a home?"

Strangely enough, when homeowners need advice in various areas of the home, professionals are called in such as consultants in plumbing, heating/cooling, landscaping and cleaning to name a few. Why then do so many homeowners still shy from using the services of a professional interior decorator when making important decorative decisions and purchases for the home? "Once considered a luxury for the wealthy, decorating services are more of a necessity for today's busy homeowner who can't afford to make costly mistakes," states Carol Donayre Bugg, ASID, author of "Smart & Simple Decorating" (1999, Time/Life).

With so many products available to consumers, most find the options overwhelming and do one of two things: rather than tackle a project making difficult decisions, they will put off an important project or move forward, many times making costly mistakes. "It's gotten to the point that homeowners today can't afford not to seek professional advice when tackling a decorating project," Bugg states. "Complimentary decorating services such as Decorating Den Interiors with more than 700 decorators throughout North America offer homeowners professional, complimentary consultations in the convenience and lighting of their own homes and offices. This type of service relieves homeowners of the pressure of working with a decorator as the only cost is for the product they may choose to purchase."

To ensure homeowners new or old get off to the right start, Bugg offers her 7 Keys to Great Decorating to ensure they'll get the results they are looking for.

1. Be a Keen Observer - make note of what catches your attention most likely you're attracted to that look! Consciously note of what catches your eye as you flip through decorating magazines, watch decorating shows on cable TV, or you may even check out interesting Internet sites on the home such as homearts.com or take a virtual tour of room makeovers on decoratingden.com. Make note of the colors, patterns and designs that attract you. Clip pictures and start a file. You may notice a style of a window treatment in one picture, a fabric or color combination in another, a comfortable looking chair in another, and so on. Clip and track these for a brief period of 1 - 2 months; you will then be better able to draw a conclusion on your taste and style.

2. Take an Honest Inventory - Determine which room or rooms you would like to improve and take an objective inventory of what you already own. Assess your furnishings the way you seasonally review your wardrobe. Next, take out your camera and take snapshots of the room(s); photo's never lie. Study the photos carefully, and keep the furniture and accessories you truly love. The easiest and least expensive way to make a notable change is to move some pieces to another room - for both function and design!

3. Make a Work-In-Progress - Is there a special family event or holiday coming up that you would like your project completed by? Determine your time projection for decorating - 6 weeks, 6 months, 1 year? - you need a work-in-progress plan that sets a series of reasonable goals. A simple, written plan in a loose-leaf binder will help you remain on track. While making the work in progress consider the scope of the project: a simple coat of a new wall color to complete room makeover with new window treatments, paint or wallpaper, a few furnishings, etc. No matter how small or large the project, ideally at this point you should schedule a complimentary at-home design consultation with a professional.

At home consultations alleviate any questions in regard to the size of room, lighting, privacy or sun problems for window treatments. A professional will ask questions and assist you in determining not only your design style but your functional needs as well. There are many professional decorating services that offer a complimentary consultation - if you don't know of a service, the yellow pages is a good place to start.

4. Balance Practicality with Panache - In decorating terms, panache is that personal touch you give the ordinary by turning it into something uniquely your own. Adding fringe shades to an average chandelier, displaying a special personal collection gathered over the years, painting a wall an unusual bold color--all are examples of how to personalize your surroundings with your own dash of panache. Best of all, panache does not have to be expensive, and practicality does not have to be mundane.

Carol offers more insight on turning your house into a home in her recently released book, "Smart & Simple Decorating," available in bookstores nationwide or call (800) 686-6393.

Who looks good for their age? 'We do!'

Survey says it's OK to try to slow down signs of aging; uncertain about treatment options

Mirror, mirror on the wall, who's the fairest one of all? According to most 30 to 50-year-olds, the answer is "me."

Nearly seven in ten 30 to 50-year-olds think they look younger than their actual age and about two-thirds say they have fewer signs of facial aging than other people their age, according to the fourth annual Wrinkle Report survey from Renova (tretinoin emollient cream) 0.05%. More than 1,400 men and women participated in the annual national survey which, for the first time in its history, was conducted on the Internet.

"Their 'aging' clock is ticking, but in the minds of most 30 to 50-year-olds, the second-hand has either stopped or is moving very slowly," says Robert Leitman, President and CEO, Harris Interactive Inc., the polling firm that conducts the annual survey for Renova. "This age group is clearly in denial about their aging physical appearance. It is statistically impossible for two in three people to look younger than their actual age to others."

But, while today's attitudes about individual appearance virtually mirror those sentiments expressed by 1,200 U.S. Baby Boomers in the first Wrinkle Report (1996), the collective 30 to 50-year old mind-set about dealing with aging has changed. Compared to three years ago, today's 30 to 50-year old is less likely to believe "people should allow nature to take its course and not try to change the way they look," and more likely to believe "people should do whatever they wish to slow down the signs of aging."

Women are more apt than men to worry about a changing appearance as they age, more likely to be bothered by having wrinkles and/or brown spots, and more likely to consider seeking assistance from a dermatologist for facial signs of aging. Nearly five out of ten women with wrinkles or brown spots say they would consider seeing a dermatologist to discuss possible treatments, compared to about three in ten men.

Yet, when it comes to treating these conditions, more than half of 30 to 50-year-olds are skeptical that there are successful remedies for treating wrinkles or brown spots. This finding offers a marked contrast to dermatologists' views on the subject. Nine out of ten dermatologists surveyed in 1998's Wrinkle Report III survey said there are effective ways to treat both these conditions.

"Consumer confusion and uncertainty is understandable given the countless number of products that claim they can magically fix these conditions," says Deborah Samoff, M.D., Assistant Clinical Professor of Dermatology at New York University. "The good news is that dermatologists have access to a vast array of medically proven treatments to help reduce or eliminate wrinkles, brown spots, and other signs of aging and improve the overall appearance of skin."

For most of their patients interested in treating wrinkles, nearly three in five (58%) dermatologists said they recommend a prescription wrinkle cream, such as Renova, according to last year's Wrinkle Report survey of 201 dermatologists. Over-the-counter wrinkle creams, including alpha hydroxy acids (22%) and retinol (19%) were the next most widely recommended treatments, followed by chemical peels (12%), cosmetic laser surgery (6%), collagen injections (3%), cosmetic plastic surgery (3%), and Botox injections (2%).

For most patients interested in treating brown spots, at least half of the dermatologists said they recommend bleaching creams (58%) and a prescription wrinkle cream, such as Renova (51%). In many instances, dermatologists said they use a combination of treatments for wrinkles and brown spots.

"A dermatologist has been trained to identify the most effective treatments for these conditions and will work with you to find the treatments best suited for your skin and lifestyle," notes Dr. Samoff.

Other key findings of Wrinkle Report IV include:

- Facial wrinkles and brown spots far outrank gray hair, hair loss, and extra weight or love handles as the leading indicator of a person's age. As they get older, however, 30 to 50-year-olds are more likely to worry about gaining weight (74%) than getting wrinkles (45%), brown spots (40%), their hair turning gray (36%), or losing their hair (36%).

• Although only a small percentage says they have a lot of facial wrinkles, two-thirds admit to having at least a few wrinkles. Only one in five (21%) say they have at least a few brown spots on their face.

Women are more likely than men to believe they appear younger than others their age and that they have fewer signs of aging than their peers.

Renova has been proven effective in clinical trials lasting 48 weeks in Caucasians 30 to 50 years old. Renova is a dermal irritant, and the results of continued irritation for greater than 48 weeks are not known, safety and effectiveness in individuals over 50 or in those with moderately or heavily pigmented skin have not been established.

For more information on Renova, call 1-800-64-Renova (647-3368) or visit www.wrinklereport.com to register for a $10 gift certificate towards the purchase of Renova when prescribed by a doctor.

Golf tournament benefits Allendale

The Allendale "Centennial Plus Two" Golf Tournament held Aug. 16 at Exmoor Country Club in Highland Park raised over $50,000 to benefit the children at Allendale. Tournament co-chairs and members of the Allendale Board of Trustees, F. Quinn Stepan, Jr. (Lake Forest) and Ed Fiorentino (Libertyville), expressed their gratitude to all those who participated and contributed to the success of the event.

"The children of Allendale truly need our help, and those who participated in the golf tournament made a difference by raising funds which go directly to programs that benefit the children," said Mr. Stepan. A special note of thanks to Abbott Laboratories (Abbott Park), Coca-Cola Bottling Company of Chicago (Park City), Harris Bank (Winnetka) and Stepan Company (Northfield) for their incredible participation and sponsorship of this event.

Proceeds from this event significantly benefit the Allendale Association, a private, not-for-profit residential, therapeutic and educational treatment center that provides a school-home type learning environment for boys and girls ages 7-18. For over 100 years, Allendale has been treating children with emotional, behavioral, medical and mental health issues. Today, Allendale serves over 1,000 children and families throughout Lake, Cook, McHenry and Kenosha Counties.

American Heart Association says diabetes is a major risk factor

Diabetes joins cigarette smoking, high blood pressure, cholesterol, obesity and lack of exercise as a major modifiable risk factor for heart disease and stroke, according to an American Heart Association scientific statement.

The association said that the statement, which appeared in an early September issue of Circulation: Journal of the American Heart Association, was made at this time because the number of people who already have or will develop Type II diabetes is expected to climb in the coming years.

Type II diabetes, which is largely the result of increasing age, obesity, physical inactivity and genetics, accounts for about 90 to 95 percent of the 10.3 million Americans diagnosed with diabetes. Another 5.4 million have undiagnosed diabetes. In addition, several ethnic groups are particularly susceptible to Type II diabetes — Hispanics, African Americans, Native Americans and Asians (especially South Asians).

In an accompanying editorial, five major public health organizations pledged to "initiate new collaborative research and new educational programs that focus on cardiovascular diseases and diabetes." The organizations, which are the American Heart Association; the American Diabetes Association; the National Heart, Lung and Blood Institute; the Juvenile Diabetes Foundation International; and the National Institute of Diabetes and Digestive and Kidney Disease, plan to concentrate most of their efforts on Type II diabetes.

"Type II diabetes is a powerful risk factor for heart disease and stroke," says Scott Grundy, M.D., Ph.D., lead author of the statement and director of the Center for Human Nutrition, University of Texas Southwestern Medical School, Dallas. "In fact, it's more than a single risk factor. It is usually accompanied by other risk factors, such as elevated levels of LDL cholesterol (low-density lipoproteins or "good" cholesterol) and elevated blood pressure, obesity and lack of physical activity, all of which makes the diabetes doubly dangerous."

"Physicians need to get more aggressive in controlling these risk factors in patients with diabetes," he says.

"Individuals need to exercise regularly and lose weight to prevent the onset of diabetes," says Grundy. "They need to go to the doctor and get their cholesterol, blood pressure and glucose measured, and if necessary, treated. They should then ask what else they can do to prevent a heart attack or stroke." The American Heart Association says that many at-risk individuals could benefit from about 30 minutes of brisk walking most days of the week.

According to the American Diabetes Association, the symptoms of Type I diabetes include: high levels of sugar in the blood; high levels of sugar in the urine; frequent urination; extreme hunger; extreme thirst; extreme weight loss; weakness and tiredness; feeling edgy and having mood changes; feeling sick to your stomach and vomiting.

Are we coddling our kids too much?

Hi Dr. Singer,

I am calling you out of sheer frustration! We are in a school district that uses a certain behavior program philosophy for handling all of its behavior problems in kids. Now, mind you, we are in a public school. I think that the use of this program seems to have contributed to huge amounts of kids who are completely out of control behaviorally.

The program advocates for letting kids misbehave a number of times before actually doing anything about it. So, bad behavior is ignored a lot of the time. When it is finally responded to, the response takes the form of attention from faculty members or talking. There is nothing else done. The joke is that the kids seem to know the exact point that they can misbehave up to and it adds up to a lot of misbehavior.

Kids are even having to be physically restrained in this public school and to me that is just a huge sign that something is terribly wrong. My child is one of the kids acting out. Each time I try to actually use some form of real discipline or limit setting, I hear from school personnel about how he just needs more understanding and more attention. When he acts out at school, he gets a personal audience with two social workers for a full hour and gets out of any prior responsibilities during that time. To me it's clear why he continues to do the bad behavior, but when I say this, I am looked at like I am from another planet. I feel like these people are making me feel like using true limit setting and discipline for my son is counter-culture and I am sick of it. Is it just my district or do you see this in other places?

PARENT'S PLACE

I figured that since you deal with straightening out bad behavior in kids, that you might be able to tell me if I am on the right track or not. By the way, my form of discipline for my child is not violent or inappropriate. I am a loving, caring parent who wants her child to learn limits now, before it's too late. With all these kids shooting up schools, I want to get a good start on making sure that my child knows that it's not OK to act out! What do think about this? Can you help us? Just call me.

Counter Culture Mom and proud to be that!

Dear Counter Culture,

Boy, you do sound frustrated and I can completely understand why! You are also to be commended for caring so much about making sure your child's future is a good one!

In answer to your question, I am seeing more and more of exactly what you describe. I am also very alarmed by this because I believe that if more parents don't wake up to this trend, we are going to inadvertently cripple a whole generation of kids. These over-ingratiated kids will have no understanding of what it takes to live peacefully in an adult society. I believe the "no-punishment/attention to feelings only approach" has created the kids who could actually think of killing because their needs were not met or because they were left out.

Many people believe that there was something new or terribly wrong with all the kids who have perpetrated violence recently, but I do not believe that kids have changed that much. I believe the only true change that has happened is society's refusal to punish and refusal to hold kids accountable for the little things before they start doing the bigger ones. The point is, any child is capable of doing horrible things if behavior is allowed to be out of control long enough. It grows exponentially over time and if there are no negative associations with that kind of behavior and if it gets the child what he or she wants each time, which it usually does, that child believes that the sun rises and sets for him. Why shouldn't he think that when his every whim is satisfied? When bad behavior does not receive a negative response.

I hope this column is a wake-up call for all parents. Listen to the frustration in this mom's call. She is right on track. Kids need to learn how to forego their own needs for someone else's. They need to learn that they will not always be first or right or paid attention to. They need to learn that spoiled-brat antics will get nothing else but an immediate negative response the first time. They need to learn to ask for help (by the way... I will say that talking about problems is o.k. as long as there has been some form of holding the child responsible for the behavior first. Otherwise, nothing is learned.) They need to be intensely taught right from wrong. These lessons don't get learned through non-action or through talking or through attention. These lessons get learned through the child doing things in life and feeling the responses. Are the responses positive or negative? This will dictate what happens next time. I find it terribly sad that many kids do not feel any negative response for bad behavior until they are well into their teens, even though bad behavior had been occurring since they were three.

Regarding the program you mentioned, I don't know which one you are referring to, but I will say that the adult world does not allow many chances for misbehavior. A program that teaches kids that they have many chances to misbehave will create the wrong training for those kids for adult life. They will expect people to let them do what they want just like happened throughout. They will not know how to handle it when adult life isn't there to coddle.

We all know that adult life is not always easy. Adult life allows one chance. One bad decision, can mess up the rest of anyone's life in adulthood. For example, if you drive drunk and a police officer pulls you over, he will more than likely not sit down and talk to you about your problems and how much self-esteem you have. He will not give you an hour of undivided attention. He will slap you with a ticket, take your license, take your car, take you in to jail and make you have a see a judge to get it all back. You will pay the 1st time. You hopefully learn from that horribly negative response to not do it again because it cost you something.

Compare that with the kid who gets in trouble and instead of being punished in some appropriate way he is given total attention by two social workers. This speaks for itself. Now, the Social Workers probably saw their actions as a good thing. They were being nurturing and helpful to an "at risk child." The problem here is that nurturing a child for having committed a bad behavior is asking for that behavior to happen again and often!

To illustrate this, I would like to tell you about a kid I saw a long time ago. This story will illustrate this point perfectly. He was nine and was getting in trouble constantly in school right before recess time. They tried it all. Every behavior program, but to no avail. I sat down with this kid and decided to not focus on asking him about the bad behavior like everyone else had. Rather, I asked him to tell me about recess. I asked him what he liked to do at recess. It turned out that this kid was being bullied on the playground and hadn't told anyone. The interesting thing was that he could actually verbalize to me that if he misbehaved enough in school, he would get to eat his lunch in the principal's office and talk to the principal throughout lunch and recess.

To summarize, this child knew that his ticket away from recess was to act out. We arranged for him to spend recess in the library researching topics he liked and the problem was solved. It took exactly 20 minutes to solve this after months of problems. My point is, we can do things to inadvertently continue bad behavior by paying the wrong kind of attention to it, and by allowing it to go on without any real investigation or negatives occurring.

Can I help? You bet! Everyday I see families who have been held hostage by bad behavior. Families who are going through exactly what you are right now. Bad behavior is a snap to change if you know how to approach it right. I hope that what I contribute to these families and society is to help these people help their kids learn the kinds of things now that will help them lead productive and normal lives. It's better to teach them when they are kids, in the safety of your home.

Contrary to what many of you might think, I believe that there is no such thing as a "stage" that kids pass out of. They either learn to change what they do or they don't learn to change it and it continues in worse forms. The thing that teaches is the response. Successful adults are people who learned to handle themselves and their urges correctly in childhood based on responses from those that cared about them. Every kid has that capacity if parents take the lead. This means active, alert parenting. Not ignoring and not waiting. If you are not happy with the way the school is handling things, I would suggest that you might check into private school or home schooling. Definitely you should handle the behavior problem privately. I would be glad to work with you if you choose. Just remember, the earlier you start the easier it is to get things on track and it doesn't have to take a long time. Good luck to you!

Men snore louder, study confirms

Scientists have proved what many women have known for a long time: men snore louder than women—an average of 3 decibels louder, according to a study of 1,139 patients at a Minnesota hospital.

Twelve percent of the patients snored at 55 decibels or more, loud enough to exceed legal nighttime noise levels in the state.

"You could ticket 12 percent of the people in this group," says Kent Wilson, DDS, an otolaryngologist who helped direct the study published in the medical journal 'Chest'.

The study was designed to measure the snoring levels of a large group of patients who had sought treatment for sleeping problems. As a group, they were not typical of the general population; they weighed 'substantially more' than the U.S. average, and 78 percent were men.

Still, the study found that a full 85 percent of the snorers were louder than 38 decibels, the equivalent of hearing light highway traffic from inside your home.

So maybe it was no surprise that the study concluded that "the noise generated by snoring can disturb or disrupt a snorer's sleep, as well as the sleep of a bed partner."

The study was more serious than it might seem. "Really loud snoring can have adverse health effects and really needs to be taken seriously," says Dr. Wilson, a clinical assistant professor of otolaryngology at the University of Minnesota. Snoring is a major sign of sleep apnea, a cessation or interruption of breathing during sleep. When the airway becomes constricted, breathing will stop and oxygen will be blocked from the lungs. Each time breathing is blocked, oxygen in the bloodstream falls and the heart must work harder to circulate blood. Blood pressure rises and the heart may beat irregularly or even stop. Some symptoms of sleep apnea include excessive daytime sleepiness, early morning headaches, impaired concentration and impotence.

Until now, he says, there has been no standardized way of measuring snoring. To conduct the study, Dr. Wilson and his colleagues placed a microphone two feet above patients as they slept in a hospital-based lab. Then they used the same kind of computer software that airports use to measure noise levels.

Local doctors present a free lecture on easy steps to increase energy

"If you suffer from fatigue, lack of energy, stress, headaches, or low back pain you will benefit from the information at this lecture," said Dr. Patrick Morris. Dr. Morris and Dr. William Wright of Gurnee are presenting a free Peak Performance lecture. The lecture will be held at the Warren-Newport Library meeting room on Monday, October 11, at 7 p.m.

The purpose of the Peak Performance lecture is to allow the public to understand the physical and nutritional causes for lack or loss of energy. This program is designed to increase your energy and have your body functioning better. Receive a series of easy steps to improve the way you are putting fuel into your body. Acquire ways to prevent injuries and enhance the structure of your body so it is allowed to be stronger and more able to sustain the activities of which you ask it to do.

Please RSVP for the free lecture with Jamie at 856-1640.

An education program for care givers of persons with Alzheimer's Disease and related dementias

All sessions will be held from 7:00 p.m. till 8:30 p.m. at the Sheridan Health Care Center.

Session 1: Helping the person with Alzheimer's Disease—Wednesday, September 22. The experience of having Alzheimer's Disease produces enormous emotional issues. This session will focus on the individual, how to help that person cope with the diagnosis, memory loss, behavioral and communication changes, and new issues arising in day to day activity. Understanding and supporting remaining abilities in order to maximize the person's quality of life will be emphasized.

Session 2: Legal and Financial Implications in Alzheimer's Disease—Wednesday, September 29. This session will focus on the legal and financial issues that impact people with Alzheimer's Disease and their families. Important areas of discussion will include making capacity, the Durable Power of Attorney for Health Care and for Finances, Medicare and Medicaid coverage, Surrogate Decision Makers and Guardianship.

Session 3: Tapping Community Resources—Wednesday, October 6. When caring for a loved one with Alzheimer's Disease or a related dementia, care givers may begin to feel isolated or left out a routine daily events. This session focuses on options and resources available in the community and how to use them to benefit both the care giver and their loved one. Options discussed will include home care, adult day care and other forms of respite as well as how to choose a nursing home.

Session 4: Alzheimer's Disease and Activities of Daily Living—Wednesday, October 13. In this session you will learn how to assist your loved one with normal activities of daily living like bathing, dressing, eating, and toileting. Issues involving safety, mobility and self medication will be highlighted. Creative techniques utilizing the person's remaining abilities and strengths will be shared. These can ease the strain that often accompanies this issues and allow more effective, efficient and safe care giving.

Session 5: Taking Care of Yourself and Other Family Members—Wednesday, October 20. Caring for a loved one with Alzheimer's Disease is not only physically challenging, but can strain emotions within the family structure. In this final session, care givers will be given suggestions on how to set realistic goals and expectations for themselves, cope with the changes in their lives, and how to respond to the various reactions that are common among family members and friends.

Take a hike: Prepare for an autumn adventure

Experience the cool temperature and the colorful beauty of fall by taking part in one of the most popular outdoor activities - hiking. According to American Sports Data, Inc., more than 98 million Americans hit the hiking trails in 1998. To ensure your safety, take the necessary precautions before heading to the wilderness. Following are a few suggestions for avoiding accidents on the trails.

Before heading out for your hike, thoroughly research your intended destination. According to David Lillard, president of the American Hiking Society, planning ahead is the easiest way to stay safe and avoid hazards.

"Find out about weather conditions, indigenous plants, wildlife and unique topography. Know what problems to expect and how to deal with dangers of the land so you're less apt to be taken by surprise."

Once you've learned about your destination, build a first aid kit so you can enjoy your hike even in the event of minor injuries or foot-related problems. 3M has a complete line of first aid products that perform well under a variety of conditions even if you perspire during an activity or happen to get caught in the rain. Protect minor cuts, scrapes and blisters with 3M Nexcare Active Strips Bandages. They feature a water-resistant adhesive that provides extra sticking power and stays put even during strenuous activity. 3M Nexcare Instant Cold Pack activates instantly - no refrigeration needed - and provides pain relief from bumps and bruises incurred on the trails. Your first aid kit might also include antiseptic towelettes to clean cuts and scrapes; syrup of ipecac in case of poison ingestion; and your preferred pain reliever.

After arriving at the trail with an ample supply of water, a compass and other necessary equipment in tow, it's time to reap the benefits of the hike. An afternoon of hiking can provide an excellent source of exercise for both kids and adults. According to the American Running and Fitness Association, a 150-pound hiker can burn about 130 calories per mile. As with any exercise, warm up your muscles with stretching exercises for ten or fifteen minutes prior to your hike. This will increase your heart-rate and increase the blood flow to muscle tissue that helps to decrease the risk of injury.

Don't let the fall season pass you by without taking advantage of the weather and the autumn views. Grab your gear, your family and friends and take a hike.

Garlic turbodrive! Discover the health benefits of alpine wild garlic

For only one week each spring in the forests of Central Europe one of the most intriguing medicinal plants in the world is hand-harvested. Alpine wild garlic, a leafy cousin of the more common bulb garlic health-conscious consumers know and love, grows in the dense forests of Central Europe - particularly Switzerland - and has never been successfully cultivated - thus remaining truly wild. As such, only the leaves of the plant are harvested during the short spring harvest season.

After harvesting, the leaves are carefully cleaned, washed and dried. The dried leaves are then milled under very low temperatures and extra care is taken to monitor the plant's active substances to ensure they remain optimized. The finished product is usually encapsulated and marketed as a dietary supplement across Europe.

The history of alpine wild garlic seems as old as European civilization itself. The early Celts and the ancient Romans consumed the plant for its cleansing capabilities. The Greeks used alpine wild garlic for its detoxification powers. The plant's Latin name (Allium ursinum) is derived from the claim that bears, after awakening from hibernation, eat wild garlic to regain their strength (ursinum is Latin for bear).

Like many medicinal plants, alpine wild garlic was used extensively until the end of the nineteenth century when synthetic drugs began to become common and people turned away from the natural plants and minerals they had relied on for centuries to keep them healthy.

Recently, though, Europeans have started returning to plants like alpine wild garlic in greater numbers thanks to an abundance of research and published articles in European health and medical journals. In fact, in 1992 the German health journal Therapiewoche (Therapy Week) declared that alpine wild garlic had been called the "Plant of the Year" by the Association for the Protection and Research on European Medicinal Plants.

"Even more recently researchers in the United States and Canada have started looking at alpine wild garlic," says Dallas Cloutre, Ph.D., a recognized authority on garlic. "What we have found, is that wild garlic has special properties which either are not found in regular garlic or are present only when extremely high amounts of regular garlic are ingested."

In his book, Alpine Wild Garlic, The Better Garlic, Cloutre states that wild garlic's composition make the plant ideal for regulating blood pressure and optimum blood circulation. He states that garlic contains at least three compounds known to positively influence blood pressure. "Wild garlic is superior by far to regular garlic and regular garlic preparations in two of these three compounds and roughly equal in the third."

Substances found in garlic, namely adenosine, seem to work in regulating blood pressure, increasing blood vessel width, decreasing blood platelet aggregation (blood stickiness) and in reducing the synthesis of LDL cholesterol.

Research and clinical tests have shown that alpine wild garlic contains 20 times more adenosine than its better known cousin - bulb garlic. As for other substances found in garlic varieties, alpine wild garlic contains more per kilogram than bulb garlic varieties.

To learn more, call The AIM Companies - an importer of alpine wild garlic - at 1-800-456-2462, Option 1. Ask for a free copy of "Alpine Wild Garlic - The Better Garlic" written by Dallas Cloutre, Ph.D.

Lake County mourns loss of 'people's judge'

By JOHN ROSZKOWSKI
Regional Editor

The legal community in Lake County is mourning the loss of one of its own as renowned Circuit Court Judge Jack Hoogasian died from complications following a stroke.

The 74-year-old Hoogasian suffered the stroke while attending a reception of the Lake County Contractors Association in Waukegan Sept. 15. He was transported to St. Therese Medical Center in Waukegan, where he died two days later on Sept. 17.

News of Hoogasian's death came as a shock to all who knew him.

"It was a surprise to us all. Although Judge Hoogasian was 74, he had the drive and spirit of someone in his 50s," said Chief Judge Henry Tonigan.

Tonigan said Hoogasian's loss will not only be felt in Waukegan but in judicial circles throughout the state and country. He said Hoogasian was one of the most widely known judges in the state, and his personality left quite an impression on everyone he met.

"You've heard the expression the people's court. He was a people's judge. He loved the law and everything about the law," Tonigan said.

Circuit Judge Jane Drew Waller said the Lake County Courthouse reacted with grief and sadness at the news of Hoogasian's death.

"Jack was our beloved colleague who was devoted to his family, loyal to his friends, and committed to his work," said Waller.

Waller said Hoogasian was known for his long hours on the bench and the large number of jury cases he tried.

"Judge Hoogasian consistently led the state in the number of jury cases tried to verdict," Waller said. "On the night he was stricken, he had worked with a jury case until 5:30 p.m. and intended to resume the trial at 8 a.m. the next day. His work ethic was surpassed only by his great love of people."

Hoogasian was elected to the circuit court on Dec. 1, 1980, and has served on the bench for the last 18 years. He was chief judge from Jan. 1, 1983 to Dec. 31, 1984.

Funeral services were held on Sept. 21 at the Church of the Holy Spirit in Lake Forest.

Veterans continue their fight against cuts at VA hospital

By JOHN ROSZKOWSKI
Regional Editor

Area veterans are continuing to fight proposed cuts in services at the VA Medical Center in North Chicago, but the future remains uncertain.

Libertyville resident Phil Mazur, a Navy veteran from the Vietnam era, said veterans are "outraged" the politicians and bureaucrats in Washington are trying to cut needed health care services for veterans.

"We've got to fight like hell to stop the people in Washington from taking away the benefits veterans deserve," said Mazur.

Vernon Hills resident James Heier, a World War II vet, frequently visits the North Chicago Chicago hospital for medical attention for his diabetes and arthritis and heart checkups.

Like other vets, he is not happy about the prospect of losing VA medical services in Lake County. "Excited we are not. Angry we are," he said.

A consultant's report to the Veterans Administration recommended relocating inpatient services at the North Chicago VA to other facilities. Among the services that would be relocated include acute and critical care, long-term nursing care, substance abuse and psychiatric care. The facility's 500 beds would be relocated to VA hospitals in downtown Chicago or Milwaukee. North Chicago would continue to provide outpatient services.

Lake County Board member Judy Martini (R-Antioch) said the Judge faces three-month suspension from bench

By JOHN ROSZKOWSKI
Regional Editor

The Illinois Judicial Inquiry Board has recommended a three-month suspension from office for Lake County Circuit Court Judge John R. Goshgarian for conduct "prejudicial to the administration of justice" and that "brings the judicial office into disrepute."

Goshgarian admitted to allegations of fact stipulated in an eight-page complaint drafted by the inquiry board to the Illinois Courts Commission on June 22, 1998.

Based upon upon that stipulation, the Judicial Inquiry Board and Goshgarian submitted a joint recommendation that the Illinois Courts Commission impose as discipline a "three month suspension without compensation."

Kathy Twine, executive director of the Judicial Inquiry Board, said the board's proposed discipline is only a recommendation and must be approved by the Illinois Courts Commission.

"It's not official until the Courts Commission approves it. It's up to them whether they want to accept it," she said.

The complaint alleged that in September 1997 Goshgarian berated in a loud voice a juror for the jury's verdict in a criminal matter, calling the jury "stupid" and "gutless" for its not guilty verdict and saying it was the "worst" verdict he had seen in years.

Other allegations against Goshgarian include inappropriate conduct involving court reporter Beth DiGiacinto. DiGiacinto was among a group of court reporters who had signed a petition expressing concern to the chief judge that Goshgarian county is drafting a letter to the VA in Washington, expressing concern about the proposed cuts in veterans health care and the estimated 900 jobs that would be lost if the VA hospital closes in North Chicago.

VETS: Veterans fighting for hospital funding

Martini said she has also requested a field hearing at the VA office in Chicago so veterans will have the opportunity to make their views known to state and national officials.

"I encourage all veterans to be writing in to their (U.S. senators)," she said.

U.S. Sen. Dick Durbin (D-Ill.) planned to propose an amendment on the Senate floor this week in an effort to block the cuts.

While it's too early to tell what will happen, David Kuhn, a spokesman for U.S. Rep. John Porter (R-Wilmette) said the good news is $1.7 billion in additional funding has been appropriated in the budget for veterans services by Congress.

"It's an indication Congress places veterans care as a high priority," Kuhn said.

Although the revised funding bill does not specify whether any of the additional money will be for the North Chicago VA Medical Center, he thinks it is a positive sign.

"The final (V.A.) appropriations bill hasn't been produced, but the good news is in the final bill by the House and Senate increased funding for veterans services, particularly medical services," he said.

That does not ease the fears of many veterans like Mazur, however.

Mazur said most of the additional dollars will go to the bureaucratic administration of the VA, and he doubts any of it will be used to help the veterans at North Chicago.

"We don't know where that money's going, but it's not coming here," he said.

What particularly irks Mazur and other veterans is the report which recommended the cuts was completed in late July but not released to the public until Sept. 10. He doesn't think it's a coincidence the report was released just a couple of weeks before Congress has to finalize its fiscal budget, including the VA appropriations bill.

"That report cost millions of dollars. That's our treatment dollars being spent to defeat veterans," he said.

Heier said he had heard rumors as far back as last November of the proposed cuts in service. Since then, he has been writing state and federal legislators to express his viewpoint.

"We are continuing to write every senator and congressman we can because we are not going to give up. We refuse to give up," he said.

Heier said he doesn't blame the VA medical staff at North Chicago, who also oppose the cuts.

In fact, Heier said he talked to one of the doctors at the North Chicago hospital last week. The doctor was seeing patients and talking to vets. The doctor said three of the vets told him there was no way they could make the trip to Chicago or Milwaukee to get the health care they needed.

The doctor said the men then started to break down and cry, according to Heier.

"The men were stating they have no place else to go. They can't get transportation there (to the other facilities). Without the VA staying in North Chicago, they feel it's a hopeless case for them."

JUDGE: Possible suspension

had not followed the ordinary selection process in choosing a permanent courtroom reporter.

Goshgarian is alleged to have refused to sign a payment voucher for DiGiaccio in retaliation against her for signing the petition, writing on the voucher, "Maybe you'd better think twice before signing petitions."

Goshgarian is also alleged to have used profane language from the bench in open court when talking to an assistant state's attorney.

He also is alleged to have referred to a female judge in a derogatory manner in and around his chambers and the courthouse with various assistant state's attorneys who had cases pending before him.

Goshgarian was appointed to serve as an Associate Judge of the Circuit Court of the Nineteenth Judicial Circuit in August 1983. He was first elected as a Circuit Court Judge in November 1986. He was re-elected to another four-year term as Circuit Judge in November 1998, in spite of the wide publicity surrounding the complaint.

The 53-year-old Goshgarian lives in Round Lake with his wife Jeanne and four children.

Winchester House under County rule

By JOHN ROSZKOWSKI
Regional Editor

Lake County's long standing arrangement with townships over patient referrals and billing to Winchester House appears to finally be coming to an end.

The County Board last week voted to terminate its contracts with the townships after some township supervisors said they were troubled with liability issues involving the current contracts.

Many townships were concerned about being stuck with large bills in the event one of their residents at the nursing home died. They were also concerned about their financial responsibility in the event Winchester House were to get into financial trouble or face a deficit. They argued the county, which has the levying authority for the nursing home, should also assume the financial liability.

Grant Township Supervisor Gordon Kiesgen said the 18 townships in Lake County have had contracts with the county for billing services and patient referrals since the 1970s. In return, each township was given an allocation of a certain number of beds for residents of their township.

The arrangement, for the most part, has worked well but Kiesgen said some supervisors were becoming increasingly concerned about the potential financial impact.

"Our feeling as supervisors was that because they (the county) levies for it they should be financially responsible for it," he said.

However, because the previous contracts had a cost sharing arrangement between the county and townships, an individual township would occasionally get stuck with paying a bill. This would usually occur when a patient died and the family did not have the money to cover the medical expenses.

While this did not happen often, Kiesgen said there were a few occasions when the townships were forced to pay large bills, in one case over $40,000.

"You don't want to be caught between a rock and a hard place," he said.

"The (nursing) home is one of the best. They do a great service, but I don't want my or any other township getting hit with a big bill."

John Schullen, vice chairman of the County Board's Health and Human Services Committee, said the issue came to a head at the last County Board meeting, when the board had to decide on whether to renew the contracts with the townships.

He said many County Board members felt if the county was going to assume total liability, it should also have control over admissions and billing. Therefore, the board decided to discontinue the contracts with the townships.

Schullen said there may still be time to work out some type of agreement with the townships before the current contracts run out on Nov. 30.

"The ball is clearly in their court. I'd like to see it worked out," he said.

Schullen said there may be some positive aspects in not having a formal contract. One benefit is individual resident referrals can be made directly with Winchester House, instead of having to go through the townships.

"It may make it easier to set up admissions," he said.

Steve Nussbaum, administrator of Winchester House, said the townships annually refer between 75 to 200 residents a year to the nursing home. There are 357 beds at the facility.

County finance director dies

By SANDY HARTOGH
Staff Reporter

Ray Amadei, director of finance for Lake County, apparently suffered a fatal heart attack on Wednesday, Sept. 22 just hours before he was to present a draft budget to the Lake County Board.

"We are just stunned here," stated County Board Chairman Jim Labelle. "Ray has been a vital, enthusiastic part of Lake County for a long time."

Labelle, who has worked with Amadei for 20 years, was at a loss for words to describe the grief he and others at the Lake County administrative offices felt upon hearing of Amadei's sudden death.

According to a report by Victory Memorial Hospital spokesperson, Linda Lampinen, Amadei, 51, drove himself to the hospital on Wednesday morning. He was admitted, complaining of chest pains.

Although cause of death has not officially been determined, LaBelle said Amadei apparently went into full arrest shortly after arriving at the hospital. Efforts to revive him were unsuccessful.

Amadei, a long-time resident of Waukegan, is survived by his wife, Barbara and three children.

He worked for Lake County since January 1974, predominately as the assistant county administrator. He was appointed as director of finance in 1991.

"Ray was an enthusiastic cheerleader for the county," reminisced LaBelle. "He was known for organizing annual trips to Cubs games. He liked to have fun, but he also worked very hard."

Plans for a memorial service are under way, says Labelle. The county flag will be lowered in memorial to Amadei.

AT A GLANCE

A DIGEST OF STORIES MAKING HEADLINES THROUGHOUT OUR REGION

Teen falls, injures head

Wauconda—What is being described as a unique accident took place on Sept. 21 as a Wauconda High School student suffered a head injury while attempting to get another student's car started.

The incident took place on Old Williams Park Road in unincorporated Wauconda about 7 p.m. Shenna Golik, 18, was listed in critical condition after she was flown by helicopter to Lutheran General Hospital.

Golik and another teen were attempting to push a vehicle in an attempt to jump start the clutch, according to Wauconda Fire Department reports. Golik fell off the trunk and hit her head on the side of the road.

"There was a repeated loss of consciousness and she was very combative, which is indicative of a head injury. It is hard to predict. In my years with the department, I have never had an incident like that," Captain Joe Arizzi said.

Legion Post 329 receives award

Libertyville—"I am pleased to see the recognition of a patriotic veterans' group for doing something that goes beyond the immediate goals and purposes of the organization," said American Legion Post 329 member and Libertyville Village Trustee Dean Larson.

The members of Post 329 will be honored at the 1999 Landmarks Preservation Council of Illinois' annual Richard H. Driehaus Awards dinner on Sept. 25. The awards honor many facets of historical preservation work, including advocacy, public policy and preservation leadership.

The post has been awarded the Exceptional Advocacy Effort Award for its dedication to restoring the old Libertyville Town Hall's cupola. The building was built in 1894 and now serves as American Legion Hall.

During the Legion's crusade to restore the building, it was discovered that Chicago architect William Boyington designed the building. Boyington also designed the historic Chicago Water Tower, details of the State Capitol Building in Springfield, and the Illinois building for the 1893 World's Fair.

The American Legion Hall is considered Boyington's last commission and is, therefore, of great historical value.

"It's something everybody in town enjoys, sees and appreciates, and will be there for a long, long time," said Larson.

Man found guilty of weapon charges

Gurnee—A Gurnee man who allegedly pointed a pellet rifle at two 8-year-old boys in June has been found guilty of two felony unlawful use of a weapon charges.

Dennis Posedel, 39, of 1980 Beechwood Ave., could face a prison term of up to 5 years for the class three felonies.

On June 4, two 8-year-old boys were playing in a yard when Posedel allegedly pointed a pellet rifle at them, said Commander Jay Patrick of the Gurnee Police Department. The boys then ran into the woods and then to the home of one of the boys, where the parents called Gurnee police.

Patrick said Posedel denied having a gun. However, after a search was conducted at his home, a pellet rifle, along with other firearms, were recovered, which Posedel was not licensed to possess, Patrick said.

Posedel, who was convicted in 1990 of felony burglary, was charged with aggravated assault in the June 4 incident, Patrick said. Shanes said Posedel was found not guilty of the two misdemeanor aggravated assault charges.

Posedel was arrested on Aug. 26 for disorderly conduct after pulling up next to the school bus of one of the boys who was involved in the earlier incident, Patrick said. Posedel posted a $1,000 bond. Shanes said Posedel now faces three charges of harassment of a witness, however he has yet to enter a plea.

Delays expected on Washington St.

Gurnee—People who normally travel on Washington Street can now expect minor delays.

The Lake County Division of Transportation has closed the outside lanes of Washington Street between Route 21 and Greenleaf Avenue. The road work began on Sept. 15.

During stage one of the road work, the outside lanes will be closed for two weeks in order to complete the concrete patching repairs.

The inside lanes will be closed for repairs for approximately two weeks after the work on the outside lanes is complete.

One lane of traffic will be open in each direction during the four-week period. The speed limit of 50 miles per hour will be temporarily reduced to 45 miles per hour.

Weight limits changed on Courtland

Mundelein—Weight limits for trucks traveling on Courtland Street east of Seymour will now be limited to four tons.

The village board voted unanimously at its latest meeting to restrict the weight of trucks that travel on Courtland Street. According to Police Chief Raymond Rose, trucks have been traveling down Courtland Street in an effort to reach Washburn International, a guitar-manufacturing company.

When the trucks cannot enter the facility from Courtland, they often have been attempting to maneuver through residential areas, Rose said. The village wants to prevent this from happening.

An alternate route for the delivery trucks has already been devised. The trucks will now have to travel on Courtland Street to Seymour to Crystal.

Boy stabbed in park fight

Round Lake Heights—Two male youths became in-involved in a fist fight while at Shagbark Park in Round Lake Heights on Sept. 21 that led to a stabbing.

During the altercation, a 10-year-old boy pushed the perpetrator, a 13-year-old boy, away from himself. At that time, the 13-year-old pulled a folding knife from his pocket, opened the knife blade, approached the 10-year-old and stabbed him one time in the lower chest area, said a report from the Round Lake Area Park District.

The victim was taken via "Fight for Life" to Lutheran General Hospital in Park Ridge where he is said to be in stable condition in the Pediatric Intensive Care Unit with a single stab wound puncturing his lung.

The offender was apprehended at his home within 20 minutes of the incident and was transported back to the scene, where he was positively identified by four eyewitnesses.

With the assistance of the Lake County State's Attorney's Office, an emergency search warrant was issued to search the offender's residence. The knife was not recovered from the location. However, three other knives were confiscated from the offender's room.

The juvenile offender was taken to Hulse Juvenile Detention Facility in Vernon Hills.

Bomb threat at Round Lake High School

Round Lake—Approximately 1,450 Round Lake High School students in the middle of second period were sent home Sept. 21 due to a bomb threat.

Although they were not on-site, Chief Charles Foy of the Round Lake Police Department said he had the Cook County Bomb Squad on stand-by to come out in case their preliminary search uncovered anything suspicious.

An extensive school and locker search proved there were no explosives or any other dangerous materials located in the high school.

Investigators are focusing on several suspects, but will interview students and teachers alike, said Foy.

"We're hoping for a no-mercy arrest," said Foy.

This is the first bomb threat of the new school year. Last June, finals exams were interrupted when a bomb threat forced the school to evacuate.

Newport Fire Department holds open house

Wadsworth—The Newport Fire Department will be hosting an open house Sept. 26 from 1-5 p.m.

Open house events will include a station tour, kids' photo I.D.s, fingerprinting and refreshments.

Especially for children is the teddy bear clinic. Children are invited to bring in their favorite stuffed animal for a check-up.

At 4 p.m., there will be face painting and animal balloons.

The Newport Fire Department is located on Caroline Street across from the Wadsworth Post Office. For more information, call 336-1080.

Officials look for cause of plane crash

Antioch—Lack of fuel is being focused upon as the possible cause of the fatal airplane crash Aug. 5 near Campbell Airport in Grayslake.

Four persons, three of the same family, were killed in the night time crash which occurred when the single engine 1973 Piper Arrow struck high tension power lines just south of the airport while on approach to land.

At the Lake County Coroner's Office inquest Sept. 16, the coroner's jury ruled all four deaths accidental due to an air mishap.

Lake County Coroner Barbara Richardson said the deaths were all caused by multiple injuries "due to blunt force."

In a statement entered into evidence from the National Transportation Safety Board (NTSB), the left wing fuel tank was separated from the remainder of the aircraft fuselage.

According to the NTSB report, the fuel tank was crushed with a covering of a "soot like substance." The left main tire was found charred underneath the wing.

"There is an indication the plane may have run low on fuel," Richardson said.

The complete findings of the NTSB along with a probable cause are not expected for six to nine months.

VA ignoring demographics

If they're using the same demographic figures relating to the aging of America and the Baby Boomers coming into their retirement years, home builders and the Veterans Administration have come up with entirely different interpretations.

The construction industry sees continuing need in northeastern Illinois for more senior citizen housing such as condos, assisted living facilities and communities like Saddlebrook Farms, Rte. 60 and Peterson Rd., and Carillon North of Grayslake. The VA forecasts a continuing migration of older Americans to the south and southwest to justify shutting down a major portion of the North Chicago VA Medical Center and cutting into a $96 million operating budget for the 500-bed facility which opened in 1926 as Downey Veterans Hospital.

Considering the government's propensity to ignore the real world while plowing doggedly forward to fulfill some policy wonk's pipe dream, we'd say the Dept. of Veterans Affairs is way off the mark.

Granted the VA wants to maintain its Lake County presence with outpatient services, but transferring of acute-care, plus psychiatric and surgical services to Lakeside Medical Center, Chicago, or the Hines VA facility in Maywood would be a huge disservice to local veterans.

In a few years, Lake County's population will exceed 700,000. Residents eligible for VA care is increasing. If you agree the North Chicago VA Medical Center should remain a full-service facility, express your support by writing the Chief Network Office (10 N); Dept. of Veterans Affairs, 810 Vermont Ave., NW, Washington, D.C. 20420.

School security serious business

Look by this newspaper at the status of safety and security in local and neighboring schools produced a mixed reaction, perhaps not so surprisingly, among administrators. As a rule, educators don't relish answering questions about touchy subjects.

It should be a comfort to parents, and the community at large, that school officials are very conscious of the broad need for making the school day as safe as possible. If security measures aren't already in place, administrators are working to improve. If they don't have specific measures in place, they're thinking about them. To their credit, that's all positive.

Of the schools we looked at (some schools declined to provide information), all have a crisis plan in place. That's basically a procedure to evacuate in case of a fire, explosion or threatening violence. Many schools require all visitors to register. A surprising number have a student ID system; nearly half of those surveyed require cards or badges.

Locked doors are common, meaning only a main door is open to visitors. All the grade schools with the exception of Mundelein elementary keep doors locked. Grant and Warren are among high schools that don't follow a locked door policy.

Ten of 26 schools examined by Lakeland Newspapers reporters employ security cameras in some form. Most high schools and a growing number of elementary schools have a police presence. Libertyville and Grayslake high schools were the most security conscious of the schools we looked at. In fairness, some schools, particularly in communities where gangs are active, have a heightened need for security so it is difficult to make blanket comparisons.

We didn't hear any parental complaints about our admittedly unscientific survey. Without a doubt, there is a keen safety and security awareness on the part of administrators and staff personnel we contacted. That's good. The freedom to come and go days of the Little Red School House are long gone.

VIEWPOINT

Rte. 53 panacea confined to history

Sorry. Rte. 53 ain't going to happen.

Now that Gov. George Ryan has taken the Illinois Tollway Authority to the woodshed (maybe even the trash heap), a good many Rte. 53 fans are going to be rethinking the highways of the future.

For years, village officials in the pathway of the proposed tollway, and frustrated commuters by the thousands, saw Rte. 53 as their salvation to gridlock in Lake County suburbs. A hope and a fantasy.

Possible solution? Maybe. Salvation? No.

Ryan, who stunned conventional highway building wisdom with a plan to do away with the oft corrupt and frequently bedeviled tollway authority, now has consigned the long-loved Rte. 53 extension to a "slow down" posture and is reevaluating the $2 billion plus plan. Now there's time to consider how the roadway would scorch bucolic Long Grove, implode Mundelein and leave a traffic dump at Grayslake. Now there will be time to study how the duplicative tollway would drastically change driving patterns for motorists in Libertyville, Buffalo Grove, Lake Zurich and McHenry.

Earlier this year, once died-in-the-wool advocates of Rte. 53 on the Grayslake Village Board hedged their position by elevating the extension of a four-lane Rte. 120 to No. 1 priority. Smart move.

The governor, as savvy a politician as any Illinois chief executive in modern times, zeroed in on the soft under belly of the Rte. 53 plan—desecration of the environment. Expressing caution, Ryan said, "I just don't think we can jump right in and take some prime environmentally sensitive land and throw a tollroad through there" (meaning central Lake County).

The late Andy Bitta, a Hawthorn Woods village trustee and ardent Rte. 53 foe, would be high-fiving the gov. Before succumbing to cancer two years ago, Bitta devoted 110 percent of his energy to exposing the folly of Rte. 53.

Mike Truppa of the influential Environmental Law & Policy Center, views Gov. Ryan's surprise tollway position as throwing a huge monkey wrench into plans to push Rte. 53 northward. Long Grove Village Admin. Cal Doughty, who has battled

Rte. 53 for years, doesn't think the governor's new stance on the tollway is cause for celebration. "It's a light in the tunnel. Let's see if it continues to shine."

Close watchers of the Illinois political scene look upon Ryan's anti-tollway stance as the tip of the iceberg in the world of high stakes, complex politicking. Lifting the toll burden from beleaguered commuters as romanticized in the media is important, but doing away with tolls is only part of the picture.

Ryan has erased all doubt about being a one-term governor. He's got a full plate that will take more than one term to clean. The governor wants no confusion over who's calling the shots. Ryan also has sent a message that building roads in Illinois is state business, not some rogue, crony-riddled quasi-governmental body like the tollway authority. The toll authority dis will play well in the General Assembly, especially with downstate politicians from both parties who have been shut out of the letting of big highway contracts for too long. Getting tollway authority appointees and their minions out of the picture restores accountability to elected officials where it belongs. Voters, this one is for you!

Believe it or not, Democrats love the gov's knock on the tollway authority. Ryan's haymaker levels the playing field. Previous Republican governors had the tollroad apparatus as their private conduit for campaign contributions.

The Rte. 53 era is over. We'll survive. Maybe the spotlight finally will be put on upgrading east-west highways, which, in reality, is the key to relieving those agonizing delays in traffic.

Chuck's pal

Judge Jack Hoogasian is receiving an outpouring of plaudits, all of them deserved. His untimely death has left a huge hole in the Lake County judicial and political system. His legion of friends and the Armenian community feel a deep sense loss. Our condolences to his wife, Claudia, and his family.

I'm sure scores of his friends can relate a side of Jack that goes beyond his reputation for fairness on the bench, dedication and hard work. A deep caring for people. I've got a personal vignette. Jack befriended my cousin, Chuck, who came into the world with a handicap, when they were neighbors. Chuck wasn't cut out for school, but he loved his job in the kitchen at Victory Memorial Hospital, treasuring his daily routine as much as his independence. Jack and Chuck shared long talks regularly during Chuck's teenage years, usually conversing about things like being thrifty, getting along with people, good citizenship, making it on his own. They became confidants. Chuck trusted Jack. Chuck was an avid newspaper reader. He took special delight in clipping out articles about people he knew. So he had a big scrapbook about his friend's career in law and politics. Jack was a sort of volunteer guardian.

Chuck became a resident of Lamb's Farm when his parents felt safety and order would be helpful. So Jack and Chuck didn't see each other anymore. But the eminent jurist would always greet me with an inquiry about Chuck. "How's Chuckie? How's he doing? Have you seen him lately?" Jack Hoogasian had a gift of connecting with people of all walks. He will be missed.

One man's family

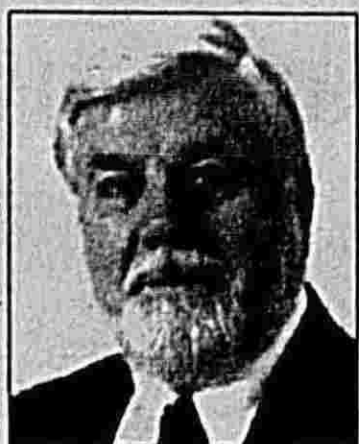

Sadie, the golden retriever puppy, is in the stage where she's exasperating one minute and lovable the next. A golf date got off on the wrong foot because she hid one of my shoes. Next morning Sadie joined in the pre-breakfast sit-up routine, placing her soft chin on my chest with a quizzical expression and her tail thumping the floor. Must have been make-up time.

Education—Politics merge at dedication

Lake County's leading educators and high profile politicians will be rubbing elbows Wednesday, Sept. 29 at the dedication of William L. Thompson School, Lake Villa.

Always a Republican, Thompson emphasized his role as a teacher and administrator for 30 years until winning election as regional school superintendent where he could combine his two areas of expertise.

Technically retired, Thompson still is on call from Regional Supt. of Schools Ed Gonwa for special assignments. The dedicated educator is an expert on school life safety requirements.

Thompson School dedication rites will be a reunion for school leaders and elected officials.

Pizza spotlight

State Rep. Sidney Mathias (R-Buffalo Grove) will be sharing the spotlight with pizza pie Wednesday, Sept. 29, at a fund-raiser at Lou Malnati's Pizzeria, 85 S. Buffalo Grove Rd.

Budget outweighs leaf burning ban

County Adm. Karl Nollen-

berger is bristling over charges from the leaf burning contingent that he harbors a ban bias. Nollenberger wasn't paying much attention to the burn debate as he was putting the finishing touches on a $315.6 million budget for fiscal 2000 beginning Dec. 1. The spending document won't require a tax increase. Maybe Nollenberger figured the tax saving can go for leaf disposal, one wag suggested.

Head start

Democrats out to dethrone Republican Congressman John Porter in the 10th district are doing their best to give Glencoe attorney Chris Cohen a head start. They endorsed him last week and have started fund-raising activities, which is a good six months before they usually get around to tabbing a challenger for the popular long-time GOP lawmaker.

Post politicking

Former county board member and Wadsworth trustee Bob Neal is not through with politics yet, even though he has been out official office for a couple of years. He was heard at this week's Village of Wadsworth board meeting skewering the village trustees for being derisive toward the mayor instead of looking out for the good of the village constituents.

Regarding controversial committee appointments, Neal said the mayor is responsible for appointment for people to appropriately represent the village, not just for them "to be vindictive."

One of his final salvos was that the trustees' sole goal appears to be to "harrass and intimidate the mayor."

Happy birthday

Party Lines wishes to extend a happy birthday greeting to Gurnee attorney Rudy Magna. Magna turned 50, and the occasion was noted with cake at a Wauconda Village board meeting. Magna's firm represents several Lake County communities.

Fan of E-Mail

Fox Lake Mayor James Pappas told a Fox Lake Scout troop he has received hundreds of e-mail messages since taking office. Many in Troop 85 said they, too, have e-Mail. His address is flmayor@aol.com.

Another world not far away

Three hours north of here, by automobile, exists a sort of twilight zone that befuddles normal people who happen upon it.

The inhabitants live a more peaceful, uncomplicated life and get almost all of their kicks (pardon the pun) from a football team.

This utopia is known as Green Bay, Wis., alias Packerland or Titletown. It is like Garrison Keillor's Lake Wobegone, Minn., in that all the women are strong, all the men are good looking and almost all of the children wear green and gold jerseys with the name FAVRE on the back, and Brett Favre's number, 4.

At the main meeting place, the downtown Holiday Inn, the waitresses and other workers wear green golf shirts with gold Packer helmets on the pockets.

It is an almost crime-free community and the pace is much less hectic than most cities of 100,000. It's a lot like our own Lakeland towns, come to think, only with less traffic. The Green Bay police are about as busy as the Maytag repairman.

We were in Green Bay again last weekend for our nephew Kurt's wedding. Deanna Favre, Brett's wife, was there as a friend of Kurt's bride, Tammi. Brett was on a business trip to Detroit.

Some Chicago people hate Green Bay, mainly because it has the better football team. (Last Sunday's disaster in Detroit, however, raises some doubt.)

On our way to the wedlocking, since our room at the Holiday Inn wasn't ready yet, we stopped at my brother-in-law Ron's house to change into our church clothes. Ron had errands to run so he left his home unlocked for us. They still can do that in Green Bay.

THE PFARR CORNER

Jerry Pfarr

My wife Janice insisted I wear a necktie, an annoyance I have avoided since retiring from the world of work. I cited the old saying that in Green Bay 10 bowling shirts are considered a great wardrobe. She argued that in Green Bay, her old hometown, they may be wearing bowling shirts but for a wedding they will be adorned with neckties and covered by suit coats.

She was right. Folks up there haven't yet stooped to entering places of worship in T-shirts, shorts and tennis shoes.

The bride and maid of honor, however, did arrive at the reception carrying cans of beer.

Everywhere one goes in Green Bay there are fans wearing jerseys with Packer players' numbers and names, and most often it's FAVRE and the number 4. I imagine Brett, Deanna and their 9-year-old daughter Brittany are bemused by that.

This year's schedule sends the Chicago Bears to Green Bay on Sunday, Nov. 7. That's when the fandom fireworks will explode; there happen to be plenty of Packer backers in our Lakeland area and Bears diehards view them with contempt.

Why, in fact, a Bears fan once went so far as to plant signs along the highway that said: "End of World, 7 miles. Green Bay, 14 miles."

And Packer fans no doubt will greet the Chicagoans on Nov. 7 with signs that say, "Welcome, Bears! Come and smell our Dairy Air."

Vets need VA hospital

I have been following the stories in the last few days about moving services and laying off people at the VA Hospital at Great Lakes.

Many years ago my father settled in Lake County because this is where he was released from the service. I would think that this is the way many families moved to Lake County.

They want to move their services to either Cook County or Milwaukee. This is just another example of placing all of the services in or near large cities. It is said that a lot of money will be saved. I seriously doubt that we as taxpayers will ever see the savings. But we will lose a very large amount of jobs plus the money that is brought into the County and the taxes that on the money that is spent in the surrounding areas.

Worst of all, the veterans in Lake County will have to go elsewhere for the services that were promised them by the federal government. This is absolutely the most important point. The people of Lake County can only lose in this situation. It seems that it would be just as easy to bring the people from Cook County and Milwaukee to the VA facility here instead of the other way around.

PLEASE contact your elected representatives to help our veterans keep the services that they have earned.

Republican Chairman

No competition

What do the recent revelations of Federal misconduct at Waco and our miserable Cubs have in common? Both are due to lack of competition.

As for the Cubs, all we can hope for is the combination of a new stadium in Milwaukee and an improving White Sox will finally get a fan's strike going and force the corporate types at the Tribune to field a decent team. But in the case of our "hear no evil, see no evil, speak no evil" major media, there is already an alternative.

Yes, the big, bad Internet had the Federal cover-up at Waco pegged way before the recent allegations finally broke in the "lamestream" media. For years innumerable "web sites" showed anyone with a room temperature IQ the government story was simply not credible. While a Washington press corps that voted 15 to 1 for Clinton sneered, a lot of intrepid individuals did their own investigations—investigations that still will be better than anything that now comes out of a totally corrupt FBI and Justice Department or a politically hamstrung Congress.

So here is my prediction. As more and more people abandon the "lamestream" media for the truly free press of the Internet, eventually there is going to be a government crackdown on the "hate filled, copyright infringing, non taxpaying" Internet.

Gov. Ryan seeks tollway reforms

You couldn't blame motorists driving on the tollway recently if they were humming that oldie, "to dream the impossible dream." They were just reacting to Governor George Ryan's surprise announcement that he is thinking of getting rid of tolls on the tollway.

His "surprise" came shortly after another audit from the state's auditor general was critical of the tollway's handling of its fiscal matters. It has always bothered me that the agency which rakes in almost $1 million dollars daily is not really answerable to anyone. State audits can conclude that funds have been mis-handled, and the tollway directors "stick their collective noses in the air," and say that they only answer to their bondholders.

You can call it a toll, or user-fee, or whatever you want, but when so many commuters fork so many tolls every day to get to and from work, it's a tax. The tollway authority should be a full state agency answerable to the public.

It was only a couple of months ago that Governor Ryan named Senate President "Pate Philip's brother, Arthur Philip, as chairman of the tollway board. Governor Ryan wasn't too thrilled to hear his newly-anointed chairman almost immediately afterward say that he supported an increase in tolls. Ryan answered vehemently against the hikes, and Philip was quiet for a while but then again said that a total revamp of the tollway system was necessary and it couldn't be done without a toll increase.

SEEING IT THROUGH

The governor quickly said that removing tolls doesn't mean he supports a hike in the gas tax in its place. He seemed to hedge a little saying something like, well, maybe we cannot eliminate the tolls, but we may be able to reduce them. Also, there was some reference that if tolls were done away with, a new revenue source might be needed. Can that be anything but a gas tax increase? Finally, he said that the bottom line is that he is taking a hard look at the tollway authority to see if some changes in the system can be made without jeopardizing the bondholders.

Some of the political cynics are writing that Ryan is just putting his new tollway chairman "in his place" to show that the governor "steers the ship of state." There may be more to it than that. After all, two past Democratic candidates for governor have advocated making the tollway authority a state agency and also phasing out the tolls.

The "anti-tollway chorus" is getting louder what with the perceived plans to stretch the tollway both northward in Lake County, as well as southward in Will County. The traffic congestion on the tollway is getting horrendous and motorists are getting boisterous about paying tolls to sit in traffic tie-ups. Serious accidents have risen on the tollways, too.

Governor Ryan is politically astute to know that if there is anything that he can do to reform the tollway system, it will be a huge political plus for him. I am certain that he knows that John Schmidt, who ran and lost in the Democrat primary for governor, is heading a "think tank" and one of his major planks will be to reform the tollway system.

Almost everyone you talk to says that "nothing will be done." They are basing it on past experience. Rep. Lauren Beth Gash has "fought the good fight" and come up short. But, there are times that come when people finally start hearing the message. That time may have arrived.

I am taking Governor George Ryan at his word. He knows that if the tollway authority becomes a full state agency, he as the governor has the power to oversee its operations. Right now, no one in government has that authority.

For the dis-believers who say it can't be done, I say hog-wash. When something is right and makes sense, it can be done. Is there anyone out there who doesn't believe that an agency taking in almost a million dollars a day shouldn't have some oversight? There has got to be a "better way to run the tollway" and I commend Governor Ryan for taking a first step in that direction.

Concentration: A Component of Success

Did you hear about the manager of an orange juice plant who lost his job because he couldn't concentrate? Or the photographer who lost all of her customers because she couldn't stay focused? Old jokes, but as in most humor there is an element of truth.

The ability to concentrate and stay focused is an important success trait. You can define concentration as "employing all of your mental powers," "thinking intensely" or "focusing all of your attention on something."

Concentration allows us to shut out distractions and interference, and to center our attention on the matter at hand. Those who enjoy the most success in life are often those who can stay focused on getting the job done.

Concentration is a skill you can develop. You will reap many benefits by building this skill.

The Pay Off

A key benefit of concentration is that your productivity will increase. High achievers stay focused and accomplish more. We all have the same number of hours each day, but most of us can learn to use those hours more effectively. We will get more done by focusing on one task until we finish it.

A second benefit of concentration is fewer mistakes. The quality of work completed increases when we're focused. We avoid those little mistakes we all make when a project doesn't have our undivided attention. It always requires less time to do it right the first time.

Another benefit is more available time. While concentration doesn't add hours to your day, it will free up more of those hours for other tasks. Fixing your focus on one task until you get it done will allow you to tackle more projects. The time you gain, added to that saved by making fewer mistakes, will stretch your day and make you more productive.

A side benefit, but still part of the pay off, is the peace of mind that comes from doing your job well. When you're doing quality work and accomplishing more every day, you become more relaxed. You no longer lie awake at night worrying about the tasks you weren't able to finish. You'll enjoy the peace of mind.

Barriers to Concentration

- Distractions. Distractions come in many forms. Phone calls, coworkers and multiple tasks are leading causes of distraction. Shut your office door and put all calls on hold until you can complete an important, urgent task. When noise begins to threaten your concentration, put on stereo headphones and block out unwanted sounds with soft music.
- Fatigue. Often your mind or body runs out of gas before you finish an important task. Usually, you are better off getting some rest before returning to the job. No one knows your personal limits better than you. If you're too tired to focus, take a break. Get a little exercise or eat a healthy snack. Then you can return to the task refreshed.

- Boredom. Routine tasks often cause boredom and symptoms similar to fatigue. If you feel boredom setting in and have no real reason for fatigue - that is, the kids didn't keep you up all night - turn the task into a challenge. Make it a game, keep

Employee-friendly CDW adds to amenities

Computer manufacturer to open on-site fitness, childcare centers

By LYNN GUNNARSON DAHLSTROM
Correspondent

Computer Discount Warehouse (CDW) in Vernon Hills already treats its employees — respectfully called coworkers — very, very well.

CDW coworkers are offered professional training and stock options; free bagels, sweet rolls and fruit twice a week; and free ice cream on Wednesdays.

CDW also works to provide family-friendly and work-life balance benefits including an adoption assistance program; on-site ATM and dry cleaning services.

Is it possible to treat coworkers even better? CDW is trying.

In a few months, CDW coworkers will have access to an on-site childcare and fitness center that will be subsidized in part by the company.

This October, the 33,000-square-foot CDW@Play Childcare and Fitness Center will open near CDW's 200 N. Milwaukee Avenue headquarters.

"CDW@Play Childcare and Fitness Center is another way CDW continues to help coworkers balance work and family life," said Melissa Sullivan, CDW's Assistant Public Relations Manager.

With its covered and uncovered outside play area, the child care center will have capacity for 144 children ranging in age from infants through kindergarten. It will be managed by Bright Horizons, "One of the leading companies in the management of this type of facility," said Sullivan.

TCA Management is set to administer the fitness center that will offer basketball, volleyball and racquetball courts along with an exercise room with cardiovascular and strength training equipment.

Sullivan said, "There will be group exercise programs as well as organized leagues for basketball and volleyball."

With all this, it is easy to see why FORTUNE magazine named CDW as one of the "100 Best Companies to Work For." FORTUNE magazine also named CDW among "America's 100 Fastest-Growing Companies" for the past two years.

Roger Byrne, president of the Village of Vernon Hills, said, "CDW not only brings jobs and national prestige to our town, it is also one of our best corporate citizens."

The company got its start as MPK Computing Inc. at the kitchen table in Michael P. Krasny's Glenview, Illinois home. Krasny, who is CDW's Chairman and Chief Executive Officer, would answer calls and fulfill requests for systems generated by the classified ad he placed in the Chicago Tribune for his own personal computer. In 1984, MPK computing was incorporated as CDW Computer Centers.

With a steadfast commitment and dedication to customers and coworkers, Krasny helped his small, home-based business grow into a FORTUNE 1000 company with more than 1700 coworkers, more than 600,000 customers, and more than $2.1 billion in sales.

The 15-year-old company offers complete customized computing solutions for businesses and consumers nationwide. With more than 48,000 brand name computer products, CDW is the number one authorized direct source of Compaq, IBM, Microsoft, Toshiba, Computer Associates and other top name brands.

"I never imagined that I could build such a successful company, just by doing what I love to do," said Krasny. "I didn't start CDW with a business plan—I started with one customer and a passion for technology. Now, 15 years later, we are proud to be an industry leader."

Krasny is not too proud, however, to help out where needed. While sales have quadrupled over the past five years, "The CEO is not afraid to stack boxes in the warehouse," said one co-worker.

Bongi opens new display models at Lakeside Condominiums

Bongi Homes has created two new furnished display models to launch the second and final phase of Lakeside Condominiums, the company's resort-style condominium complex on the south shore of 300-acre Bangs Lake in Wauconda.

The new models, created by interior designer Valerie Bongiovanni, feature a two-bedroom, two-bath Brittany plan and a one-bedroom, two-bath Colonade.

The Palatine-based builder has redesigned and completely modernized two three-story buildings to create 48 resort-style one- or two-bedroom homes. Seven plans are available, priced from $125,900 to $165,900.

Novelty company finds new home

Chemical Light and its subsidiary company, Embroidery Experts, Inc., 595 Lakeview Parkway, Vernon Hills, will share a new 68,000-square-foot facility.

Chemical Light is the nation's largest distributor of chemi-luminescent novelty goods. The firm relocated from Wheeling. The new facility will serve as the company's corporate headquarters and warehouse operations and will also house Embroidery Experts, a division of Chemical Light which provides custom embroidery services.

Ernst & Young tabs partner, principal

Professional services firm Ernst & Young LLP has promoted Graham R. Heddle of Lake Forest to partner and Thomas A. Harris of Vernon Hills to principal.

Heddle is a member of Ernst & Young's Chicago-based consulting services group, where he serves as engagement director for large scale global supply chain re-engineering initiatives. He joined the firm in 1995. For more than 12 years, Heddle held a number of business systems roles for large multi-national consumer goods manufacturers. He successfully implemented supply chain projects within the UK, France, Germany, Belgium, Netherlands and Australia.

Financing operations help homebuyers purchase larger homes for less

While more than one in four Americans are purchasing larger, more expensive homes, according to statistics from Inside Mortgage Finance, they are also becoming very cost-conscious, looking for opportunities to reduce their out-of-pocket costs, interest rate and mortgage debt.

"Today's homeowners want more bedrooms, more bathrooms, more closet space...more of everything it's that simple," said Rob Speight, branch manager for Vernon Hills area of Northwest Mortgage Inc., the nation's leading provider of home loans.

Financing an expensive home has traditionally required borrowers to obtain a jumbo loan - any mortgage exceeding the conventional loan limit of $240,000. However, jumbo loans pose a higher risk to the lender than a conventional loan, so they carry a slightly higher interest rate, generally between 1/4 to 1/2 percent, due to the higher risk for the lender. This means higher monthly mortgage payments for homeowners.

In addition, Private Mortgage Insurance (PMI) - insurance required by mortgage lenders when a homeowner has less than 20 percent equity in their property - increases a homeowner's monthly payment by hundreds of dollars.

Jerry Martin receives NMRA Mel Barr Award

Jerry Martin, founder and chairman of Jerry Martin Associates in Gurnee, was honored with the Mel Barr Award for his contributions to the marine industry. It is sponsored by the National Marine Representatives Association (NMRA) and Boating Industry magazine. Barr was NMRA founder and its first president.

A resident of Gurnee since 1957, Martin's industry roots start in 1955, when he joined Johnson Motors as assistant advertising manager to develop promotion programs for dealers. He was Johnson's first sales promotion manager and developed the All Family Boat Show ad campaign. It was used by Johnson dealers to help bring new people into recreational boating for 26

He started the marine-oriented public relations agency, Jerry Martin Associates, in 1962, now managed by his daughter Laura. In 1965, he built a boat store in Gurnee as an experimental retail marketing laboratory, a founder of the Marine Retailers Association of America (MRAA), he won the Irv Rosenthal Award in 1973 for helping build MRAA's original membership.

Martin also owned an independent sales agency in the early 1970's and was an NMRA member. He participated in US Department of Commerce export building programs, and has recently done consulting and special projects for companies in the US, China, Japan and Malaysia.

Volwiler Society membership expands

Abbott Laboratories has named 22 Abbott scientists as new or promoted members of the Volwiler Society for their scientific and technical expertise.

The Volwiler Society, established in 1985, recognizes the company's most distinguished scientists and engineers. The society encourages professional growth and constant pursuit of innovation and scientific discovery. The new appointees bring the total membership to 179 Abbott scientists and engineers.

The members are elected by a committee of Abbott scientific leaders. The committee evaluates candidates on their ingenuity, scientific excellence, constant productivity and performance at Abbott. There are four levels of membership: associate research fellow, research fellow, senior research fellow, and distinguished research fellow.

Newly elected associate research fellows include: Catherine A. Brennan, Ph.D.: Libertyville, Jorge D. Brioni, Ph.D.: Vernon Hills, John R. Hackett, Jr., Ph.D.: Libertyville, Michael R. Michaelides, Ph.D.: Libertyville, James A. Morely, Ph.D.: Wildwood, Yihong Qiu, Ph.D.: Gurnee, Dinesh O. Shah, Ph.D.: Libertyville, John N. Simons, Ph.D.: Grayslake, Kent D. Stewart, Ph.D.: Gurnee, Xiu C. Wang, Ph.D.: Green Oaks, John S. Ziegler: Arlington Heights, Thomas P. Leary, Ph.D.: Kenosha and Scott A.

Muerhoff, Ph.D.: Kenosha.

Promoted to research fellow from associate research fellow are the following:

Lake County residents: Michael W. Decker, Ph.D.: Mundelein, Jeffrey C. Hunt, Ph.D.: Mundelein, Luk Chiu Li, Ph.D.: Vernon Hills, Karl W. Mollison, Ph.D.: Arlington Heights and Thomas W. von Geldern, Ph.D.: Richmond.

The society is named for the late Dr. Ernest H. Volwiler, former Abbott president and chairman of the board. Dr. Volwiler is recognized in the National Inventors Hall of Fame by the U.S. Patent Office for his part in the discovery of sodium pentothal, one of the world's most widely used anesthetic agents.

Agents honored in Milwaukee

Grayslake-area agents were recognized with Emerald Diamond awards during the 119th annual meeting of agents of the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Co., Milwaukee, for sales achievements during the year ending May 31.

The following agents were honored with awards at the meeting: George McGuire, Diamond; David Michael Freitag, Emerald; Tim Farmer, Emerald.

James L. Quigley of Barrington received the Emerald Award.

BUSINESS BRIEFS

□ Deborah Fliehm, owner of Creative Technical Services, Deerfield, has been selected by the Lake County Partners as the marketing and communication agency of record. Partners is a private, non-profit organization for promoting economic growth.

□ Abbott Laboratories scores big with investors for consistency. The latest quarterly common dividend of 17 cents per share was the 303rd consecutive dividend paid by Abbott since 1924.

□ Dennis Nixon, president and CEO of Metro Technologies, L.L.C., and his staff will be conducting a ceremony at 4:30 p.m. Wednesday, Sept. 29, at a new facility at 1225 Tri-State Parkway, Gurnee. Mayor Richard Welton and Warren Township Supervisor Sue Simpson will be co-wielders of the scissors.

□ Dave Muller, proprietor of the Meat Shop, 632 Hawley St., Mundelein, features an eye-popping and mouth-watering veggie sandwich in his deli department. His customers appreciate his thoughtfulness for persons who might not want to include meat in their diet. Muller's meats have been a staple since 1976.

ON THE MOVE

Don Meek has been named vice president, sales, TAP Holdings Inc., Deerfield. Previously Meek was national sales director, TAP Holdings Inc. He joined Abbott Laboratories in 1973 as a product representative and joined TAP in 1985 as a district manager. Meek holds a bachelor of pharmacy degree from the University of Kansas. He resides in Lake Zurich with his wife and daughter.

Meek:
Promoted to U.P.
Sales

Do-it-yourself projects to get your home ready for colder weather

Now is the time of year to think about colder weather, higher energy bills, holiday guests and all the preparation it will take to get to the new millennium.

Getting your home ready for winter won't be a big chore — if you begin doing a little at a time. The following are some suggestions for basic fall projects to keep you busy over the next few weekends.

Your furnace is probably due for its yearly checkup before the weather gets too cold. Schedule a chimney cleaning at the same time — you don't want your home filling up with smoke when you first light the fireplace. To help avoid frantic calls to the plumber, make sure your pipes are insulated with foam tubing. Most tubing comes pre-slit for easy installation and can be taped closed.

"To prevent drafts and to keep heat-seeking insects from entering your home, we recommend sealing between baseboards and floor boards with expandable foam," says Stephanie Cole, of the Home Depot. "It's also the time of year to install carbon monoxide detectors or replace the batteries of the units already in your home. While you're at the store, buy replacement batteries for your smoke detectors as well."

Energy savers

Expanding foam insulation should also be used around spigots, television cable jacks, telephone lines and other entry points to your house, she said. This also prevents drafts and insects from invading your living space. Caulk around dryer vents and fans and any other fittings mounted to the side of your house.

It's important to seal windows and doors and replace worn or damaged weather-stripping. The most durable weather strips are made of metal or are metal-reinforced. Most weather-stripping products made of plastic, rubber or foam generally only last a few years, so make this a seasonal check-up.

Replace your furnace filters. Most standard filters help people breathe easier, make your furnace or central air system run more efficiently and remove dust, dirt, pollen and other air particles from your home. To avoid build-up, standard filters should be replaced monthly. To eliminate this monthly chore, consider installing an electrostatic filter. These filters not only have a life span of 10 to 15 years, but can also capture smaller particles than a standard filter and improve your air quality.

If your attic is unfinished, insulate it! This is crucial in maintaining your home's energy-efficiency and is easier than you might think.

"Poorly insulated attics and basements can cost a homeowner hundreds of dollars in heating costs each winter," says Cole.

Good insulation goes hand in hand with good ventilation. Check to be sure your home's soffit (intake vent) and roof (outtake) vents are in good condition and that there are enough vent outlets. Discuss this with an associate from the building materials departments at your local home center.

Don't neglect outdoors

Fall is the time to plant spring bulbs in garden beds so they'll be in the ground all winter. After you've added new shrubs and perennials and transplanted trees, mulch around the plants to get through the winter.

Established lawns should be fertilized so root growth will take off next spring.

Don't send your lawnmower into hibernation without a proper cleanup. Drain the gas tank (let it run for 5 to 10 minutes) and remove grass debris. Oil the underside of the deck to keep it from rusting.

Use a sturdy ladder and thick gardening gloves to clean out the gutters, making sure to avoid power lines.

Y2K here welcome

You don't want to be a century behind in fashion. Shed extra pounds in your closet by pulling items that haven't been worn or used in the last year or two. Consider installing a closet organizer which will help you to sort your wardrobe by height, color and type.

Get an early start on winter guests. Check carpets, ceramic tile and vinyl and wood floors for stains. Laminates don't hold up well to heavy cleaners so use a solution of baking soda, lemon and water. Think about interior design changes as the holiday season gets closer. Plan room arrangements that will work with decorations and holiday activities, keeping in mind that you may have visitors.

Burning Wood: A lifestyle choice

In a world where convenience has become a top priority, the purchase of a wood-burning stove or fireplace is clearly a lifestyle choice. A bit of effort is required to produce fuel, load the stove or fireplace, and load it again when those initial logs have turned to embers.

Yet there is a tremendous resurgence in wood burning hearth products throughout North America. For some, the purchase of a woodburning stove or fireplace is insurance against power outages due to Y2K glitches. For others, it's the more realistic concern of power outages due to Mother Nature — snowstorms, hurricanes, floods, etc. All shut down the power grid every year in different regions, and a wood stove or fireplace provides a sense of security, warmth for your family and protection against bursting pipes and when the temperature outside plummets to freezing levels.

Or perhaps Marshall McLuhan had it right when he said, "When confronted with a new situation, we look to the past." Certainly the speed and complexity with which computers have entered the main stream of our lives is a "new situation." And perhaps nothing symbolizes the "past" more perfectly than a roaring wood fire on the hearth.

But make no mistakes, today's wood stoves and fireplace are far more efficient and cleaner burning than the "Model Ts" of yesteryear. They are easier to operate, offer a much better view of the fire, take up space, and are much safer.

And product designs has come a long way in the past decade. You can choose from steel, cast iron or stone appliances. Gold-plated accents, a variety of paint colors and gleaming porcelain enamel allow customization of each unit to complement home decor.

Installation of a wood stove typically requires a hearth pad, proper chimney and careful attention to the manufacturer's guidelines for clearances to combustibles. It is best left to a professional.

If you have an existing masonry fireplace, you can turn it into an efficient heat source with the addition of a fireplace insert. An insert is really a freestanding stove that has been converted to retrofit into an existing masonry or factory-built fireplace. Because the face of the fireplace is sealed off from the living area, it eliminates the huge heat loss up the open chimney.

Fireplace inserts do not take up valuable floor space, because most sit flush with the face of the firebox, and utilize a blower system to help circulate heat and through the home. Others offer additional radiant heat and a cook top surface (ideal during power outages) by extending onto the hearth.

And built-in fireplace offers the ultimate flexibility in terms of design, allowing you to blend the installation perfectly into the design of your home. Woodburning fireplaces are available as relatively simple and inexpensive units with low efficiencies, or as highly efficient, and controllable, units.

You may find that a fireplace is perfect for your family room, an insert ideal for that seldom-used masonry fireplace in the living room, and a stove perfect for the kitchen. But don't forget the home office. A beautiful and soothing fire can make those work hours far less aggravating.

ences also cemented a desire to be of service to mankind. This interest in science, his curiosity, and desire to be of service contributed to his decision to go into medical school and ultimately specialize in psychiatry.

Donald attended Western Michigan in Kalamazoo, Mich and the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor, Mich. He graduated from the University of Michigan with a medical degree in 1938. Donald served on staff at Ypsilanti State Hospital from 1938 to 1940. He entered the army in 1940 and was assigned to Fort Sam Houston, Tex. He saw service in China, Burma and India and discharged in 1946 as a Lt. Colonel to resume private life back at Ypsilanti State Hospital on staff.

In 1948, Dr. Moore took a position as Chief of Neuro-psychiatric Service at the Veteran's Administration Hospital in Louisville, Ky. In addition he was an Associate Professor at the University of Louisville School of Medicine. He moved to Indianapolis, Ind. in October of 1955 and took the Medical Director position at Larue D. Carter Hospital. He continued teaching as a full professor at Indiana University Medical Center along with his administrative duties. Larue Carter was nationally noted as a psychiatric-research hospital during Dr. Moore's administration. He authored several publications and books and was an outstanding community leader in his professional activities.

He was a former lecturer, Christian Theological Seminary, Indianapolis, Ind., former lecturer, Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, Louisville, Ky.; Past president, Indiana Psychiatric Association; Past president, Central Neuro-Psychiatric Association; Past president, Association of Medical Superintendents of Mental Hospitals; Fellow American Psychiatric Association and member; Committees on Psychiatry and Psychology and Council on Professions and Associations; Associate Examiner American Board of Psychiatry and Neurology. He was an active panelist for several years on the local television program, "Insight."

Donald retired from Carter Hospital in the fall of 1980. This gave him and wife Carole (nee Gibson) more time to spend summers at his cabin in Northern Michigan and winters with good friends in the Cayman Islands.

"Dad loved his time at the lake. He could work in the woods, by reading in a hammock, or enjoy the beach and water as much as possible," said daughter, Kathleen. His wife Carole preceded him in death on Jan. 11, 1999.

He will be missed by his children, Mary Ann Turner, Costa Mesa, Calif., Donald Floyd Moore, Jr., Springfield, Ohio, Kathleen Fedders, Loveland, Ohio, Carol Jo Hoehne, Fox Lake; 14 grandchildren and 11 great grandchildren.

A Memorial Service was held at Crown Hill Funeral Home, Indianapolis, Ind.

In lieu of flowers the family suggests donations to the Marion County Mental Health Assn., 2986 Willowbrook Parkway Suite 100, Indianapolis, Ind., 46205.

PLANNING AND ZONING BOARD OF APPEALS
FOX LAKE, ILLINOIS

Public notice is hereby given pursuant to a Preliminary Site Plan on file in the Village Clerk's office of the Village of Fox Lake, that a public hearing will be held on October 21, 1999, at 7:30 p.m., in the Village of Fox Lake Village Hall, 301 South Route 59, Fox Lake, Illinois, to hear the Petition of Eagle Homes, Inc., owner of the following described real estate, to-wit:

See attached

Location of property is: 27150 Chris Larkin Road

The common address is: 27150 Chris Larkin Road, PIN #05-15-400-014

Petitioner is requesting that upon annexation of the property that it be rezoned so that portions are zoned E1, R1 and R2, to accommodate 51 residential homesites, and for certain variations from the zoning and subdivision regulations, including, but not limited to: maximum length of Cul-de-sacs to be 900 feet; utility easements to be in front yards; development of double frontage lots; reduction to 80% of lot width requirement on curves in R1 and R2 zone; relief from driveway and parkway cross-slope requirements; deletion of requirements for sidewalks; development of flag lots; waiver of one-story floor area minimums; elimination of lot width minimums in E1 zone; reduction of "more than one-story floor area" minimum in E1 zone; and clarification of definition of "wetland."

Said file is available for examination in the Village Clerk's office at the Village Hall in Fox Lake, Illinois.

All interested persons are invited to attend said hearing and be heard.

Respectfully submitted,
Ron Stochl, Chairman
Fox Lake Zoning Board of Appeals

PUBLIC NOTICE NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING ON THE FINANCING OF MEDICAL OFFICE BUILDINGS FOR NIMED CORPORATION

PUBLIC NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that on October 13, 1999 at 7:30 p.m., at the City of McHenry City Hall, 333 South Green Street, McHenry, Illinois, a public hearing will be held by the City Council of the City of McHenry on the proposed financing of certain medical office buildings described below.

The proposed financing involves the issuance and sale of the City of McHenry, Illinois, Health Facilities Revenue Bonds (NIMED Corporation Projects) Series 1999A, in the aggregate principal amount not to exceed $6,000,000 (the "Bonds"). The Bonds will be limited obligations of the City of McHenry, Illinois (the "City of McHenry"), and except to the extent payable from Bond proceeds or income from the temporary investment thereof, will be payable from and secured by a pledge and assignment of the revenues and other amounts to be derived pursuant to a Loan Agreement between NIMED Corporation (the "Company") and the City of McHenry (the "Loan Agreement"), pursuant to which the City of McHenry will lend the proceeds from the sale of the Bonds to the Company to finance the medical office buildings all of which are owned by the Company at the following locations: (a) the medical office building located at 4309 Medical Center Drive, McHenry, Illinois; (b) the medical office building located at 935 Skidmore, Antioch, Illinois; (c) the medical office building located at 11650 S. Route 47, Huntley, Illinois; and (d) the medical office building located at Route 14 and Doty Road in Woodstock, Illinois. The Loan Agreement will obligate the Company to repay the loan in such amounts and at such times as will be sufficient to pay the principal of, premium, if any, and interest on the Bonds. The Bonds will not be general obligations of the City of McHenry, the Village of Antioch, the Village of Huntley or the City of Woodstock, and will not constitute a debt or liability of the State of Illinois or any political subdivision thereof, and neither the State of Illinois nor any political subdivision thereof will be liable on the Bonds nor will the Bonds be payable out of any funds of the City of McHenry (other than amounts paid by the Company to the City of McHenry under the Loan Agreement), the State of Illinois or any political subdivision thereof, the Village of Antioch, the Village of Huntley or the City of Woodstock. No holder of the Bonds has the right to compel any exercise of the taxing power of the City of McHenry, the Village of Antioch, the Village of Huntley or the City of Woodstock to pay the Bonds or the interest thereon.

The public hearing constitutes the public hearing required by Section 147(f) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended.

At the time and place set for the public hearing all interested persons will be given the opportunity to express their views for or against the proposed financing. Written comments may also be submitted to the City Clerk at 333 South Green Street, McHenry, Illinois 60050, until October 12, 1999.

How To Survive The Job Search

By Nancy Sakol

Q: Every time I think I am getting ahead, someone pulls the rug out from under my feet. I have just been released from (name withheld), which is the first job I have really liked in a long time. I was a good employee. I never gave anyone any trouble. I went to work, did my job and respected my supervisor. I am so mad that I was let go, and don't think that the reasons were fair. Sure I had some personal things that came up but weren't my fault. I don't think I was given a good enough reason for my release. Things do happen to people, and employers should be more sympathetic. I had been there for only 6 weeks and during that time I had been late a couple of times. One time was due to a flat tire I got and didn't have a spare tire to change it with. I was 3 hours late, but I did show up. A week later, I lent my car to a friend the night before and he didn't show up with the car until I was already 45 minutes late for work. Last week, a friend of mine got sick at their work and needed a ride home. I left a couple of hours early that day, but came in the next day and made up the missed hours by working a couple of hours later than I normally would. I tried to explain to the supervisor that sometimes things are out of a person's control, and that he should be more understanding. It could happen to anyone. I understand that sometimes you are able to get involved in a situation like this and maybe help me to get my job back. I hope to hear back from you soon. You can reach me at (# withheld). I appreciate any help you can offer. Thank you. K.D. -Mundelein.

A: I am sympathetic to your story and thought while reading it, that there had to be perhaps a bit more to the story than you told me. The company agreed that you were a good employee for them when you were there. They also stated that they tried to be sympathetic to your situation. They too mentioned the few situations as you did and then listed 6 more that you hadn't. For instance, there was the day that you couldn't come in because your car wouldn't start, and you couldn't find a ride. Then there was the day you called in that a friend had fallen down a flight of stairs and you needed to take her to the doctor. Or the time that you locked yourself out of your house and couldn't get to work because your car keys were inside. Those just being a few of the situations, the company feels as though in the short time (6 weeks) you have been employed, you have had over a year's worth of "situations" making them unwilling to overlook. While I will agree that you have had an over abundance of things happening to cause you to miss work as often as you had in 6 weeks, it is not the responsibility of the company to allow you to juggle your personal problems and work, when it is them suffering by the loss of personnel. The work has got to get done, and the reality is that they needed to find someone that they could depend on. I would make sure that you get your automobile in working order, stop lending your car to friends, and get a spare set of keys for those times you lock yourself out. Good luck.

Play Better Golf with JACK NICKLAUS

LET YOUR LEFT HEEL BE PULLED UP BY YOUR BACKSWING COILING RATHER THAN LIFTING IT DELIBERATELY.

BY CONSCIOUSLY RAISING IT, YOU RISK YOUR HEAD AND BODY ALSO COMING UP WHICH SEVERELY DISRUPTS YOUR SWING ARC.

ALSO, WHEN THE HEEL CLIMBS TOO HIGH, IT'S HARD TO SUPPORT YOUR DOWNSWING LEG AND HIP ACTION BY REPLANTING YOUR LEFT FOOT SOLIDLY.

IN OTHER WORDS, LET YOUR FEET WORK AS AN EFFECT, NOT A CAUSE.
